Ohio Education Councils Proposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The governor's Task Force on Education today proposed county boards of education be replaced with county education councils authorized to levy education taxes.

The task force, in its report, called for a major revamping of Ohio's educational system with new emphasis on vocational and technical training.

"A serious gap exists between the need for and the availability of vocational and technical education in Ohio," the report said. "A crisis exists."

The new County Council of Education could levy an education income tax as a means of partially replacing property taxes, the report said.

It also suggested the Legislature raise the average public utility tax rate from 17.5 to at least 25 mills.

Among other highlights of the report:

—State funds for construction of vocational facilities should be distributed on a basis of need.

—A new state-levied gross retail receipts tax of one per cent should be earmarked for education.

—Technical education construction funds should be made available through revenue bonds issued by an agency of the state.

The 16-member task force, headed by Dr. John C. Ullery, criticized Ohio's present school districts, charging it guaranteed "unequal educational opportunity."

The county councils of education, in addition to levying taxes, would be empowered to support employment-oriented education.

It could also reorganize present school district and assign pupils and teachers.

Only five per cent of the 150,000 high school graduates in Ohio each year are skilled to a degree acceptable to employers, the report said.

Finance Director Howard C. Collier said "We are looking for a dependable tax base that will be needed to finance a long-range program."

The cost of Rhodes' educational program, his No. 1 priority for the legislature, has ranged from $200 million to $400 million in state, federal and local funds. Some assistance will be provided from the $759 million bond issues approved by last November.

The task force also had discussed recommending to the legislature that the state salex tax be increased from 4 to 5 per cent. This remains a possibility as it will be up to the lawmakers to decide how they want

East Liverpool is in the position of the couple planning for years to build a "dream house" that would do away with all the ugliness and inconvenience of the past and provide the setting for a bright, secure future.

The day of reckoning arrives when the architect tosses a costly set of blueprints on the desk and starts to talk about the realities of construction costs and mortgage money.

East Liverpool has a set of bright plans in 394 pages of text, maps, graphs and photos contained in the two-volume "Comprehensive Development Plan" prepared over a three-year span at a cost of approximately $50,000.

It points the way to a brighter future for the old city, which presents the appearance of a senile crone in some areas and in other aspects has the bright face of a youthful debutante.

Borman, Lovell And Anders Give Talks To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's capital has pulled out all the ceremonial stops to honor America's latest set of heroes —the Apollo 8 astronauts.

Following a morning ceremony at the White House to receive the Distinguished Space Medal from President Johnson, Frank Borman, James Lovell Jr., and William A. Anders had an address to a joint meeting of Congress scheduled.

Air Force Col. Borman, Navy Capt. Lovell and Air Force Lt. Col. Anders became the first men to fly around another planet or satellite Christmas Eve and Christmas Day when they orbited the moon 10 times as part of their perfect six-day trip into space.

The wives and children of the astronauts accompanied them to Washington Wednesday night from their homes near the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, Tex.

Since ending their lunar flight on Dec. 27, Borman, Lovell and Anders have been closeted with experts in Houston, recording all the intricate details of the mission—details intended to ease the way for other astronauts to land on the moon later this year.

The Astronaut's trip comes at a time when space agency sources were reporting in Houston, Tex., that Borman may be in line for an administrative job, which would probably mean he will be precluded from future space trips.

Driver Dies, Man Burned In Mishaps

Auto's Crash Laid To Heart Attack; Fire Hits Truck

The death of a Lisbon area man in an accident on Route 267 early this morning was attributed to a heart attack and a Beaver trucker was burned severely in another mishap early Wednesday night.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Kermit A. McDaniel, 58, of Lisbon RD 3 was driving a 1962 sedan south on Route 167 about a half-mile south of Route 30 at 1:40 a.m. when he apparently lost control of the car on the icy pavement and it slid off the left side of the road and struck a tree.

Mr. McDaniel's death first was attributed to the accident, but Deputy Coroner Roy C. Costello later ruled death due to a heart attack. He was pronounced dead on arrival at City Hospital at 2:40.

He was born in Owensboro, Ky., March 5, 1910, and had resided in the East Liverpool area since 1930. He was employed in the accounting department of the coal strip at the Midland Division of the Crucible Steel Co.

He was a member of the Glenmoor United Presbyterian Church, Wellsville Masonic Lodge 180, Royal Arch Masons, Chapter 55, of Wellsville, and Steelworkers Local 1212.

Tear Gas, Knife Used In Robbery

In the third robbery in a little more than two weeks at a service station at E. 3rd St. and Broadway, an attendant was menaced by a knife and sprayed with tear gas early today by a youth who escaped with $62, police reported.

Otto Davis of E. 3rd St., an attendant at the Humble Oil Co. station, told police a youth about 18 menaced him with the knife and forced him into a back room at the station about 12:34 this morning, took the money from him and then sprayed tear gas in his face and fled.

It was the third robbery at the same station since Dec. 22. Davis was present for all three.

In the second holdup Dec. 30, a gunman obtained $92 from Davis after ordering him into a restroom.

Police were notified of the holdup this morning in a call from an unidentified woman.

1,000 Slain Fleeing Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A young Cuban refugee who braved killer dogs and machine-gun fire to reach the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo said Wednesday about 1,000 people had been killed in the past year trying to cross the fence to freedom.

The 18-year-old youth was one of 87 refugees who dashed into the base Monday morning in what is believed the largest mass escape from the Castro regime.

However, for every two people who made it across the fence Monday, one stayed behind, he said.

"It was horrible for the ones who didn't make it," said the youth, who wouldn't give his name to newsmen. "I saw the guards shoot three of the prisoners at close range. They just tumbled over."

Eighty members of the group arrived in Miami Wednesday aboard two U.S. Navy planes.

One of the men said three members of the group were cut down by machine-gun bullets and a woman was torn apart by dogs loosed by guards who patrol around the naval base.

The man, who also declined to give his name for fear his relatives in Cuba would be harmed, said two guards were felled by escapees' bullets.

One of the leaders said the escape began early Monday when the group stole a truck in Havana and began a 600-mile westward journey to the base, picking up passengers as they went. By the time they reached the base, more than 120 were crammed into the truck.

"We parked the truck about

Suggest Dropping Further Investigations

Scientists Say UFOs Not From Outer Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — University of Colorado scientists reported formally today there is no evidence Unidentified Flying Objects are visitors from outer space and suggested dropping further investigations.

"Our general conclusion is tha tnothing has come from the study of UFO's in the past 21 years that has added to scientific knowledge," the scientists' 1,485-page report said bluntly.

The $500,000, two-year study, conducted for an Air Force weary of the "flying saucer" headache, said "further extensive study of UFO's probably cannot be justified" at this point in the interest of science.

The three-volume report went along with the Air Force's long-held position that no evidence exists indicating that UFO's pose a hazard to U.S. security. The service, however, had no comment on it.

The scientists, headed by Colorado's Dr. Edward U. Condon, acknowledged their conclusions are bound to stir new controversy among flying saucer-believers as well as other dedicated scientists who want to keep an open mind on the matter.

One of several flying saucer groups—the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena—scheduled a Friday news conference to discuss the long-awaited "Scientific Study of Unidentified Flying Objects." The group charged last May the Condon study lacked impartiality.

But the report won the "unanimous approval" of a National Academy of Sciences panel which was asked by the Air Force to review it in a "further independent check."

The panel found the study "adequate" in scope, its "methodology and approach well chosen" and concurred in its evaluations and recommendations.

Among the study's major points:

"No direct evidence whatever of a convincing nature now exists for the claim that any UFO's represent spacecraft visiting earth from another civilization."

—About 90 per cent of all UFO reports "prove to be quite plausibly related to ordinary objects" such as planes, satellites, balloons, street lights, beacons, clouds or other natural phenomena.

—Defense needs probably could be carried out "without the continuance" of the Air Force's Project Blue Book which has investigated UFO reports since 1947, but this is a matter for the Pentagon to decide.

—Suggestions by some people that the government possesses extraterrestrial spacecraft and has their crews in secret captivity some are "fantastic nonsense."

—Allegations the government has attempted an official cover-up of the flying saucer matter have "no factual basis whatever."

—Some public school students are being "educationally harmed by absording unsound and erroneous" reading materials on UFO's, and "we strongly recommend" teachers stop giving them credit for reading saucer books and articles.

Police Rap Work Change At Midland

Nine Midland Borough police appeared before Council Wednesday to air complaints about a new work schedule made by Mayor Eli Corak, slated to begin Sunday.

Sgt. George (Porky) Tepovich, spokesman for the group, said there is a lack of communications with Mayor Eli Corak and Councilmen, so they had to choose this way to talk.

The men said they are opposed to the schedule because it would mean there would be one man on duty at the desk and one in the cruiser between the hours of 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. and from 4 a.m. to 8 a.m.

They say these are the hours when crimes are most likely to be committed, and feel the borough will not get the proper

Skids Blamed In 3 Crashes; Man, 28, Hurt

Skids on icy thoroughfares were blamed for three traffic mishaps in East Liverpool late Wednesday night and early today, including a crash in the downtown area that injured a 28-year-old Chester man.

Francis E. Duke of Chester RD 1 was taken to City Hospital for treatment of a cut over the eye after a mishap at 12:41 this morning on Market St. 100 feet south of E. 5th St. in which his 1964 two-door sedan skidded into a parked 1965 four-door sedan owned by Howard Hoffman of 1304 Perry Ave., police said.

Duke told police as he crossed the intersection at 5th and Market his auto began to slide on icy pavement. The car bounced off a curb and then hit the parked auto, forcing it into a parking meter standard.

A SKID was blamed for a collision at 1:04 this morning in which a Glenmoor man's auto struck a utility pole at Elizabeth St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

The 1969 sedan operated by Leonard A. Barborak, 22, began to slide as he was rounding the curve, went left of center and hit the pole owned by the Ohio Power Co., officers said. The collision damaged the entire front of the auto.

A Midland woman's auto went out of control on ice Wednesday at 11:18 p.m. in the 1400 block of St. Clair Ave. and slid into a parked auto.

The 1964 two-door sedan driven by Louise McGeehan, 57, of 12th St., Midland, hit a parked 1962 four-door sedan owned by Paul E. McDole of 1407 St. Clair Ave.

The woman said her car skidded out of control when she applied the brakes at the Orchard Grove Ave. intersection while driving south on St. Clair. There was damage to the left front of her car and the rear of the McDole auto.

ABOUT $1,200 damage resulted to a truck Wednesday near noon when it hit the height barrier at the Chester Bridge.

Operated by Robert Nelson Foreman, 27, of Ashland Pl., the truck is owned by the Veterans Plate Glass Co. of Broadway, police said. The damage was confined principally to the dual glass racks atop the truck, officers said.

Police also filed an incomplete report on a mishap on Washington St. south of E. 3rd St. at 1:34 this morning that involved a parked car owned by Ernest MacKenzie of 306 Washington St. and an auto registered to John Jenkins of 770 Dresden Ave. The report showed damage to the front end of each auto, but contained no explanation as to how the mishap occurred.

Davis said he asked the unidentified youth: "How are things going?"

"They are going to get better," the youth replied, then pulled the knife and canister of tear gas and ordered Davis into the back room.

Davis said the youth demanded the money and he surrendered $62. The youth then sprayed his face with the tear gas and ran out the door, he related.

Davis, 18, was treated at City Hospital for the tear gas burns around his eyes. He said the holdup man wielded an aerosol can of the disabling chemical similar to the containers carried by all East Liverpool police.

Davis said the bandit was about four feet away when he fired the gas directly into his face.

nomena (NICAP) "made several efforts to influence the course of our study."

"When it became clear that these would fail, NICAP attacked the Colorado project as 'biased' and therefore without merit," the report said.

The scientists presented 35 cases where UFO's were photographed, or appeared to have been.

Nine were said to give evidence of "probable fabrication," seven of possible fabrication, seven were classified as natural or man-made phenomena and 12 provide insufficient data for analysis.

None proved to be "real objects with high strangeness."

Since the Air Force's Project Blue Book began investigating "flying saucers" in 1947, there have been 12,097 UFO sightings, 697 of which remain "unidentified."

The scientists said their main strategy was to set aside many of the old Air Force interviews and press clips of UFOs while focusing on their own interrogations and analyses of UFO incidents arising during the time of their study.

In detailed, sometimes highly complex fashion, the report covered case studies of 59 UFO reports, recounted the history of UFO sightings, looked at UFO study programs in foreign countries and focused on 20 years of past U.S. study of UFO phenomena.

UFO reports around the world vary so greatly, the report said, "it is impossible" to relate them to a single explanation.

"This means that a general explanation peculiar to any one country has to be ruled out, since it is utterly improbable that the secret military aircraft of any one country (for example) would be undergoing test flights in different countries," the report stated.

Newell Youth To Face Jury In Diner Case

An 18-year-old Newell youth was bound over to the Grand Jury Wednesday after a lengthy preliminary hearing in Municipal Court on a charge he staged a $75 armed robbery Dec. 23 at the Midway Diner on the River Rd., but hearings slated today for two men accused of a $92 stickup Dec. 30 at a downtown service station were continued because they had not obtained counsel.

Ronald Koping of 1003 Washington St., Newell, was ordered held for the jury yesterday by Acting Judge Robert A. Kapp after a hearing that required nearly two and a half hours.

Named in an affidavit filed by Det. Capt. Kenneth Mooney and Det. William A. Devon, Koping was accused of taking the money from the register at the diner after menacing two employes and three patrons with a pistol.

Koping pleaded not guilty through his counsel, Bernard Fineman. The prosecution witnesses included Devon, Mabel Blake, a cook, and Isabell Moore, a waitress, and Robert Heiney of Minerva St., one of the patrons.

Heiney identified Koping as the bandit. He said he recognized the defendant's voice and also the auto which he was driving. The diner was held up by a gunman who concealed his face behind a ski mask.

Under cross - examination, Heiney admitted he had served time at the Ohio State Reformatory on charges of burglary and forgery.

Willard Payne, 27, of No. 8 Thompson Pl. and Charles J. Cadaret, 35, of Detroit, are defendants in an alleged holdup at the Humble Oil Co. service station at E. 3rd St. and Broadway early the morning of Dec. 30.

Patrolman Bruce Conkle signed affidavits accusing Cadaret of perpetrating the robbery and charging Payne with "aiding and abetting" in the holdup by driving the getaway car.

After the men advised the court they did not have counsel, the acting judge continued both cases until next Monday morning.

He also continued the defendants' $10,000 bonds and they were returned to jail. The two men were taken before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on Dec. 31, then granted a continuance until today to obtain counsel.

Each man said he had been unable to obtain an attorney. Cadaret told the judge he telephoned his attorney in Detroit and the lawyer promised to come to East Liverpool, but did not. Payne said one of his relatives promised to obtain counsel for him, but did not.

Police said Officer Conkle arrested Payne and Cadaret in an auto on Jefferson St. about two hours after a gunman took $92 from Otto Davis, an attendant, by menacing him with a .38-caliber automatic pistol.

The Senate and House concluded their first work week Wednesday with another flurry of bills introduced in the Senate. Both chambers adjourned until 8 p. m. Monday.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess R - 4 Wood suggested Wednesday that the legislature recess the week of Jan. 20 so that the lawmakers could attend background seminars.

Kurfess suggested that such meetings be held outside Columbus, possible at a state university or state park, so that the legislators would not be subjected to the constant interruptions they are confronted with at the Statehouse.

This would be the first time for such seminars by an Ohio legislature.

Kurfess said the seminars would be helpful in exposing freshmen and veteran legislators alike to the problems they face. He suggested that topics be limited to three vital areas—education, taxation and welfare—with experts brought in to discuss these issues with the senators and representatives.

Kurfess stressed that the proposal is not definite, and that many details would have to be worked out.

Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray R-3 Miami said he would "be a little leary about" holding the seminars away from Columbus.

Rep. John C. McDonald D-19 Licking, House minority leader, said the seminars would be a "desirable thing."

A bill to add a student representative, a faculty member and the president of the university to the boards of trustees of each state university — but with no voting right—was introduced in the Senate by Sen. Ralph S. Regula R - 29 Stark. The measure is backed by Rhodes.

The Senate received two bills aimed at cracking down on "marauding gangs of kids." They would raise from $800 to $2,000 the amount of parental liability for the willful destruction of property by minors, and make parents responsible up to $2,000 for malicious assaults on persons by their minor children.

Both bills were sponsored by Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff R - 8 Hamilton.

Other Senate-introduced bills would prohibit lie detector tests for employment, and require that county boards of elections provide convenient locations for voter registration.

The House adopted a resolution praising Rep. Robert G. Jones R-26 Columbus, who died of injuries suffered in an auto accident here in November.

Before adjourning, Kurfess named seven representatives to represent the House at the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect Nixon: Ralph E. Fisher R-24 Wayne, Clarence L. Wetzel R-34 Columbiana, David Weissert R-28 Muskingum, Carlton E. Davidson R-26 Lawrence, George V. Voinovich R - 53 Cleveland, Donald R. Nowack D-45 Cleveland and William L. Mallory D-72 Cincinnati.

Senate Majority Leader Gray said he will name these senators Monday: Robert R. Shaw R-16 Franklin, Ralph S. Regula R-29 Stark, Oliver Ocasek D-27 Summit, Anthony F. Novak D-23 Cuyahoga, James K. Leedy R-19 Wayne, Oakley C. Collins R-18 Lawrence and Max H. Dennis R-10 Clinton.

Skids Blamed In 3 Crashes; Man, 28, Hurt

Skids on icy thoroughfares were blamed for three traffic mishaps in East Liverpool late Wednesday night and early today, including a crash in the downtown area that injured a 28-year-old Chester man

Francis E. Duke of Chester RD 1 was taken to City Hospital for treatment of a cut over the eye after a mishap at 12:41 this morning on Market St. 100 feet south of E. 5th St. in which his 1964 two-door sedan skidded into a parked 1965 four-door sedan owned by Howard Hoffman of 1304 Perry Ave., police said.

Duke told police as he crossed the intersection at 5th and Market his auto began to slide on icy pavement. The car bounced off a curb and then hit the parked auto, forcing it into a parking meter standard.

A SKID was blamed for a collision at 1:04 this morning in which a Glenmoor man's auto struck a utility pole at Elizabeth St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

The 1969 sedan operated by Leonard A. Barborak, 22, began to slide as he was rounding the curve, went left of center and hit the pole owned by the Ohio Power Co., officers said. The collision damaged the entire front of the auto.

A Midland woman's auto went out of control on ice Wednesday at 11:18 p.m. in the 1400 block of St. Clair Ave. and slid into a parked auto.

The 1964 two-door sedan driven by Louise McGeehan, 57, of 12th St., Midland, hit a parked 1962 four-door sedan owned by Paul E. McDole of 1407 St. Clair Ave.

The woman said her car skidded out of control when she applied the brakes at the Orchard Grove Ave. intersection while driving south on St. Clair. There was damage to the left front of her car and the rear of the McDole auto.

ABOUT $1,200 damage resulted to a truck Wednesday near noon when it hit the height barrier at the Chester Bridge.

Operated by Robert Nelson Foreman, 27, of Ashland Pl., the truck is owned by the Veterans Plate Glass Co. of Broadway, police said. The damage was confined principally to the dual glass racks atop the truck, officers said.

Police also filed an incomplete report on a mishap on Washington St. south of E. 3rd St. at 1:34 this morning that involved a parked car owned by Ernest MacKenzie of 306 Washington St. and an auto registered to John Jenkins of 770 Dresden Ave. The report showed damage to the front end of each auto, but contained no explanation as to how the mishap occurred.

the building and then entered the station.

Davis said he asked the unidentified youth: "How are things going?"

"They are going to get better," the youth replied, then pulled the knife and canister of tear gas and ordered Davis into the back room.

Davis said the youth demanded the money and he surrendered $62. The youth then sprayed his face with the tear gas and ran out the door, he related.

Davis, 18, was treated at City Hospital for the tear gas burns around his eyes. He said the holdup man wielded an aerosol can of the disabling chemical similar to the containers carried by all East Liverpool police.

Davis said the bandit was about four feet away when he fired the gas directly into his face.

protection and the policemen's lives will be jeopardized.

TEPOVICH said the schedule benefits only one man — evidently meaning Patrolman Chester (Bud) Cook who would be on a steady daylight turn as a parking meter man and direct the Crucible Steel Co. mill traffic.

The sergeant said all over the United States two men are used in police cars during these hours. He said the schedule now in effect has been worked since 1954 and shows no partiality.

He reminded Council one time the Mayor had offered police a 40-hour week which they turned down. They now work 42 hours a week.

He said when he was on the meter assignment, there was a rotation plan worked.

The borough solicitor said Council did not have the authority to change a schedule worked out by the Mayor.

Tepovich said according to a law passed in 1968, policeman have a right to arbitration on working conditions as well as wages. He said this is the first time police have appeared at Council in his 19 years as a police officer.

He said they are not demanding anything — only requesting a postponement until discussions can be held.

THE POLICE also complained of "distorted facts" being presented to Council.

Sgt. Tepovich cited the four-month sick leave of Sgt. William Anusich, "that was supposed to cost the borough so much money." He offered figures claiming the absence only cost the borough an extra $3 every two weeks, figuring the difference in pay of a sergeant and patrolman and a lost three-week vacation by Anusich and compensation reimbursement.

Mayor Corak, who is ill at home with the flu, told news reporters, "I feel one or two men on the police department are promoting a sour grapes campaign, and I intend to do something about it."

He said the schedule has been worked many times unofficially when men were "off sick." Most departments in the Beaver County are operating with one man on duty, he said. "Even the State Police operate at times with only one man in the car."

The mayor said Midland has "the highest paid police department in the county and about 80 per cent of western Pennsylvania, and probably higher paid than 80 per cent of all boroughs. They are equipped with the most modern, up-to-date police equipment and weapons such as car radios and the highly expensive Motorola walkie talkies."

"They are also on the new intra - community radio just bought by the Beaver County Commissioners and could contact all of Beaver County police in case of an emergency. The monitor is at the Midland station with the base station at the Beaver County Jail."

He also said it is difficult to determine when the most crimes take place — "bank robberies are usually committed in the daytime."

MAYOR CORAK said nearly $7,000 was paid in overtime when Anusich was on sick leave and yet he was still paid his regular salary. "Midland police are paid their full salaries for three years on sick leave."

He said, "If you show the police in black and white the current tax yield would not meet the demand, they would show no concern and say 'get the money'." He declared, "I will not permit the taxpayer to pay overtime. Under the old schedule if a man were off, it would mean overtime for a policeman."

The mayor said Council is now stabilizing the cost, which are mostly in human materials.

He said he sent a letter to the police when he heard of their complaint, asking them to sacrifice 14 days each and he would consider a change in the schedule that would mean not as much overtime.

He said collective bargaining means there must be concessions on both sides so the gains can be equalized — "it should not be a one way street."

He said the Midland police are no better than others in the county, and cited the surrounding boroughs of Industry and Ohioville, who have part time police who are dedicated and give their boroughs ample protection. He feels the schedule he has worked out gives the borough and police ample protection.

IN OTHER business, a contract for a $400,000 bond issue for street improvements was awarded to the Singer, Deane and Scribner Co., of Pittsburgh. They will pay no premium. Interest will be at a rate of 5¾ per cent for a total of 5.625.

The other bid from the A. M. Masten Co. of Pittsburgh offered a premium of $503, and interest for 5¾ for 17 years and 5½ for 3 years, for a total of 5.695. The Northern Bank Note Co., of Chicago will print the bonds at a cost of $230.

Bids for two new police cars will be advertised and opened at the Jan. 22 meeting. These are included in the bond issue.

Dues of $20 were paid to the Beaver County Boroughs Association, and a representative of Midland will be chosen.

A letter will be sent to the Community Action Center in answer to a request of a $5 a month donation from Council. The solicitor said it is illegal to spend tax monies to support organizations. The group receives funds from the state and federal government.

Councilman Leonard Ware asked Matt Brozic, street commissioner, to make sure the garbage truck is pulling over to allow cars to pass when the crews are collecting.

Pay Hikes Coming Up For Brass

The ease with which the House handled the matter of raising Richard M. Nixon's presidential salary from $100,000 to $200,000 is a tipoff about how it will handle upcoming bills to raise the salaries of all Washington officials.

We have no quarrel with the increase that goes with the presidency. No salary could be considered adequate compensation for that job.

FOR EXAMPLE, members of Congress now make $30,000 a year. It has been proposed this be increased to $50,000—a 66 per cent hike.

Other proposals would raise presidential assistants from $30,000 to $55,000 annually; chief justice of Supreme Court from $40,000 to $75,000; associate justice from $39,500 to $65,000 and heads of major agencies from $30,000 to $55,000.

Source of most of the salary proposals is a presidential commission headed by Frederick Kappel, former chairman of the board of American Telephone and Telegraph. Commission recommendations, of course, are subject to revision by President Johnson and Congress.

Washington officials deserve increases in pay and we believe they should have them. But we think the size of the raises should be reasonable.

Some of those now being discussed are exhorbitant and should be trimmed.

THE LAST PAY INCREASE for members for Congress, which became effective in 1965, raised their pay by one-third. A similar increase at this time would put their pay at $40,000 a year. That seems more reasonable to us than the proposed 66 per cent jump.

The doubling of pay for the president was $50,000 more than had been speculated.

We fear the generosity of the House's presidential pay bill will set a precedent that will be used to justify fat raises for government brass from top to bottom without regard for those who are footing the bill.

The Pollution Problem

Solving massive problems such as water and air pollution is not a simple matter, for there are so many factors to be considered — jobs, investments, private and government expense, methodology, regional involvement, various inter-relationships affecting many people and different economies.

The problem at Toronto and New Cumberland due to air pollution from facilities of the Ohio Edison Power Co. is one which demonstrates this very complexity. The smoke and dust have become noisome and a health factor for people in a state apart from the source, and the means of ending the pollution apparently can not be either fast nor inexpensive.

Abatement of air pollution at Midland, long a serious situation, was eased to a great degree by the installation of costly equipment in the new Crucible Steel TOC facility and shutting down the obsolete smoky open hearths.

Certainly the elimination of the pollution down river is a prime requisite and deserves priority action by the utility. Continued pressure by the citizens affected to obtain action from the company and from the government authorities is necessary to remind them of the urgent concern of these families for themselves, their children, their home, their communities.

Malnutrition Among Middle Class

A preliminary report on a government study of malnutrition in America indicates the serious food-deficiency problem is not limited to poor but affects the middle class as well — especially teen-agers.

The full report is still a year away but early returns have been conclusive enough that Dr. Arnold E. Schaefer, director of the study for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, released some of the findings to date.

He said many middle-class teen-agers are unhealthy because they fail to eat the right foods, such as fruit, leafly vegetables and milk.

Teens will be happy to learn that Dr. Schaefer did not knock hamburgers, long a favorite dish of the young set. The researcher said: "Hamburgers are really pretty good food."

A balanced diet is the key to good nutrition and Dr. Schaefer feels that lesson should be taught in schools "from kindergarten on up."

The director no doubt will have other recommendations when the study, which involves more than 60,000 people in 10 states, is completed. Some of them may be interesting.

The study already has startled at least a few people by showing that some people who are smart enough to become middle class aren't smart enough to eat properly.

Transportation Hit

I would like to know what has happened to the transportation in our city of East Liverpool. The bus service is lousy, it breaks down en route to where you are going or coming. They are cold most of the time with little or no heat.

The cab company is out of the question, with only two cabs running until midnight and then most of the time only one cab on the road after midnight. I waited three hours for a cab on Dec. 27 at the A. & P. Store. The day before Christmas I was told when I called that I would have to wait 20 minutes and I waited 1½ hours.

The cabs are in poor condition, the doors fly open and are full of fumes from the exhaust systems and they are filthy dirty on the inside and out.

We have too nice a city to have to put up with this. You are almost afraid to get in a cab and the drivers never have their badges showing or their licenses displayed. You never know a cab from a personal car. They have a grey car, a black car and a station wagon and a discourteous man drives once in a while.

They never open the doors for you in bad weather or good. I truly think if some one would take an interest in this cab company they could make a good living operating it.

Grid Season Finale

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — I know people aren't going to believe this but my wife thinks that the 1968 football season is over just because it's 1969. This shows how out of touch some American women are.

Art Buchwald

Last Saturday, for example, I was watching a postseason game from Nome, Alaska, brought in by satellite, when my wife came in the room and said, "I thought the football season officially ended on New Year's Day."

"It's true the official college season ended on New Year's Day with the postseason bowl games, but there are still a lot of post-postseason games that have to be played."

"Have to be played?" she asked.

"OF COURSE, FOR EXAMPLE, there has to be a game between the Northeastern All-Stars and the Southwestern All-Stars at Sandy Hook, L.I."

"What for?"

"That's a stupid question," I said. "To play the winner of the Southeastern All-Stars and Northwestern All-Stars game in Cheyenne, Wyo."

"And what will that decide, that the Rose Bowl, Orange Bowl, Cotton Bowl and Sugar Bowl haven't decided already?" she asked.

"It will decide what teams will play against each other on Lincoln's birthday in Springfield, Ill."

My wife leaned on her broom. "Don't get me wrong. I enjoy football as much as any wife who lives alone but it seems to me that the 1968 football season should end in 1968, for neatness if nothing else."

"You can't end the 1968 football season in 1968," I said angrily. "There are still too many games that have to be played."

"For example?" she asked.

"Well, you have the Blue and the Gray game between the North and the South, and then you have the Red and the White game between Anglo-Saxons and those of Indian blood. Then there is the Black Power All-Stars against the Uncle Toms, and I haven't even told you who's playing tomorrow."

"WHY DON'T THEY let the kids go back to classes after they've finished playing football for the season?"

"Because this way the kids get a chance to visit Mobile, Ala., and Death Valley and Sutter's Creek — places they'd never see if they didn't play football. Don't you understand? Behind every football team in the United States there's a promoter ready to hold a bowl game once the season is over."

"Well, it seems to me they take advantage of those boys."

"Now you're talking like a do-gooder. You have to toughen these kids up if they're ever going to play pro-ball."

"Don't tell me the professional football season isn't over either?"

"It's hardly beginning. Haven't you ever heard of the Super Bowl?"

"I know you'll hate me if I say I haven't."

"WELL, THERE'S THE SUPER BOWL, and there is the East-West Pro Bowl, and then there's the Runner-Up Bowl, and there's the Coaches' All-Star Bowl, not to mention a special Midnight Bowl which is going to be played in South Korea as part of Armed Forces Week festivities."

"Could you give me a guess, a wild guess if you like, as to when the last whistle of the last game of 1968 officially will be blown?"

I took out a pencil and started calculating. Finally I said, "Taking in everything, including postseason, all-star, all-pro, all-coaches, high school, college and professional football, I would say that the 1968 football season will officially end on June 16, 1969."

My wife signed. "It seems like only yesterday when they didn't even know if O. J. Simpson would make the Women's Wear Daily All-American team."

Labor Will Tolerate Nixon

WASHINGTON — There are two forces here which know exactly where they want to go in '69—the labor movement and Richard Nixon. And they want to get there without colliding.

Victor Riesel

So, in the beginning there will be light banter, cocktail receptions for freshmen congressmen, exchange of social visits through the front doors of the White House and the House of Labor, which face each other across Lafayette Park.

But it will heat up. Mr. Nixon, for example, is for black capitalism. Labor leaders believe it's foolhardy, utopian and separatist, and will fight it. They're for integration, not separation. With them is the NAACP. They see no future in black banking or black "mom- and pop-ism."

Instead, the men of labor want the government to spend four billion dollars creating one million "make-work jobs." Mr. Nixon's young advisers and Negro specialists are for community capitalism.

The President-elect wants to run a tight money ship. He'll hardly be enthused by the campaign for government spending of four billion dollars on a neo-Works Progress Administration (WPA) program. But the labor leaders say, let's put the jobless to work first, train them later and get the money into the ghettos.

FURTHERMORE, the laborleaders view tight money like snow victims view a sleet storm. American labor has a program of its own for massive doses of money to create a simple kind of power, spending power.

This Secretary of Labor-designate George Shultz learned swiftly enough late in December, when he went over to the Hill for a briefing, by the minority (Republican members of the House Labor Committee). What will labor want of Congress, asked Shultz.

Labor will argue that the swiftest solution for the unskilled, disadvantaged jobless of the inner city is not black banks financing "mom and pop" shops, or opening marginal profit stores which will be cut to ribbons by "downtown" or supermarket shopping centers, but rather to put the never-employed, as well as the underemployed, as well as the untrainables, to work immediately at $2 an hour. Of course, there still are tens of millions who work today at less than the official national statutory $1.60 an hour.

COUPLED WITH THIS will be a campaign to raise the national skilled overtime wage from time-and-a-half to double time. And from the background will be heard labor's shouts for a statutory 35- instead of a 40-hour week.

Labor will unleash an all-out offensive without worrying about its reserves, since it knows that it will not need to be on the defensive, regardless of the cries from the rear that Mr. Nixon was elected with a conservative mandate.

There will be no new antistrike legislation suggested by the White House to Congress. Mr. Nixon's inner labor council has concluded there is no way to stop a strike (beyond cooling it off for 80 days) except to holler. The adminstration will have enough trouble preventing some sort of job action by fedaral employes. So it isn't likely to march up the Hill with plans for compulsory arbitration.

Is this all that labor wants of 1969?

Nope! In the coming year, labor wants to begin building the political machinery to make Richard M. Nixon a one-term president.

ALL THE PLEASANTRIES and soft voices and comradeship between George Shultz and George Meany (Mr. Labor himself) won't obscure the political animosities. Labor still wants Hubert Humphrey, or a reasonable facsimile, in the White House in '72. And the arenas in which the union chiefs are building for 1972 are the state legislatures.

This isn't the kind of operation which makes the national or the statewide headlines and news wires. But watch for the results. Mr. Meaney is determined that state restrictions on voter registration, through residency or language clauses, must go. City, central city and state labor bodies will launch this campaign in the coming weeks.

It will make a difference. Over 90 per cent of those who were registered voiced dissatisfaction because of some restriction. In the coming months, Mr. Meany plans to get these men on the books. And Mr. Meany believes most of them will be labor voters.

Here you have the basic issues, black and white, for which American labor will fight right into 1970.

Powell Case

While the House of Representatives by majority vote permitted Adam Clayton Powell to take his seat and decided to deduct a $25,000 fine from his pay check over the next two years, this doesn't solve the problems raised by the controversy.

Why, for instance, did the voters in the Harlem district — which is predominantly Negro — ignore the resolution adopted by the House in 1967 and proceed thereafter to elect Powell twice?

Why did the parishioners of the church of which Powell is pastor continue to support him, even though the House formally declared he had misused $40,000 of public funds?

THE ANSWERS ARE to be found in a single word — distortion. The Negroes were led to believe that it was merely a racial conflict and that the charges were untrue or that similar misdeeds allegedly committed by other members of Congress had been condoned.

Powell himself, at a news conference Friday, said the whole thing was "racist" inspired.

But the American people are entitled to the truth and the voters in the Harlem district especially need to be thoroughly informed. For if the violations of law by Adam Clayton Powell are to be disregarded merely because he is a Negro, the resentment among the whites in America will intensify.

The results will hardly be beneficial to the many Negroes in this country who have no sympathy for what Powell did.

It may be debated at length just what motivated the members of Congress, Republican or Democrat, to deal firmly with Powell. But there can be no doubt that public opinion throughout America has been indignant over the previous relevations in the case.

To attempt, as Powell did in his Saturday news conference, to charge that the large number of Republicans who voted against him were engaged in a "sellout" to Southern Democrats is to seek to put not only a racial but a political emphasis on the whole matter.

The real question, however, is what can be done to inform Negro and white voters in congressional districts about their responsibilities. How can they expect efficient or impartial action if they themselves are so readily misled and if they gloss over misdeeds when the evidence of wrongdoing is proclaimed by the House of Representatives itself?

It is easy enough for Negro leaders privately to look upon Powell's behavior as wrong but they hesitate to say so openly for fear they will be denounced by the militants. At the very time when extraordinary efforts are being made by responsible citizens in all racial groups to promote understanding and harmony, the indifference of many Negro leaders to what Powell did will unquestionably increase the difficulties.

Will America win or lose its battle against discrimination suffered by Negroes by setting up a system of favoritism for Negroes in what might be called "discrimination in reverse"?

The laws of the land which govern personal conduct apply equally to individuals of all races. But if the people of a congressional district overlook the misdeeds of their representative and deliberately elect him twice thereafter, the challenge posed to the future of the Democratic system is a serious one.

It will be asked whether everybody should vote even if unable to read or write and whether the present system needs modification so that the electorate will be composed of well-informed citizens.

It will be necessary, too, to make further investigation of the many unlawful things that happen in campaigns, such as improper influence on voters.

SO FAR AS DISCIPLINE is concerned, the House of Representatives, under the Constitution, is the judge of the qualifications of its members and what is meant by "disorderly behavior." Many people are asking, however, why the Department of Justice has refrained from pressing effectively any prosecution since 1967, when the misuse of funds was officially disclosed.

The talk around Washington is that fear of the ill effects on the Democratic administration's political fortunes was an important reason for the prolonged inaction.

A press release was issued Dec. 9 stating that a federal grand jury had been investigating the allegations against Powell and that "the Department of Justice didn't recommend an indictment and none was returned.

Pay Hikes Coming Up For Brass

The ease with which the House handled the matter of raising Richard M. Nixon's presidential salary from $100,000 to $200,000 is a tipoff about how it will handle upcoming bills to raise the salaries of all Washington officials.

We have no quarrel with the increase that goes with the presidency. No salary could be considered adequate compensation for that job.

FOR EXAMPLE, members of Congress now make $30,000 a year. It has been proposed this be increased to $50,000—a 66 per cent hike.

Other proposals would raise presidential assistants from $30,000 to $55,000 annually; chief justice of Supreme Court from $40,000 to $75,000; associate justice from $39,500 to $65,000 and heads of major agencies from $30,000 to $55,000.

Source of most of the salary proposals is a presidential commission headed by Frederick Kappel, former chairman of the board of American Telephone and Telegraph. Commission recommendations, of course, are subject to revision by President Johnson and Congress.

Washington officials deserve increases in pay and we believe they should have them. But we think the size of the raises should be reasonable.

Some of those now being discussed are exhorbitant and should be trimmed.

THE LAST PAY INCREASE for members for Congress, which became effective in 1965, raised their pay by one-third. A similar increase at this time would put their pay at $40,000 a year. That seems more reasonable to us than the proposed 66 per cent jump.

The doubling of pay for the president was $50,000 more than had been speculated.

We fear the generosity of the House's presidential pay bill will set a precedent that will be used to justify fat raises for government brass from top to bottom without regard for those who are footing the bill.

The Pollution Problem

Solving massive problems such as water and air pollution is not a simple matter, for there are so many factors to be considered — jobs, investments, private and government expense, methodology, regional involvement, various inter-relationships affecting many people and different economies.

The problem at Toronto and New Cumberland due to air pollution from facilities of the Ohio Edison Power Co. is one which demonstrates this very complexity. The smoke and dust have become noisome and a health factor for people in a state apart from the source, and the means of ending the pollution apparently can not be either fast nor inexpensive.

Abatement of air pollution at Midland, long a serious situation, was eased to a great degree by the installation of costly equipment in the new Crucible Steel TOC facility and shutting down the obsolete smoky open hearths.

Certainly the elimination of the pollution down river is a prime requisite and deserves priority action by the utility. Continued pressure by the citizens affected to obtain action from the company and from the government authorities is necessary to remind them of the urgent concern of these families for themselves, their children, their home, their communities.

Powell Case

While the House of Representatives by majority vote permitted Adam Clayton Powell to take his seat and decided to deduct a $25,000 fine from his pay check over the next two years, this doesn't solve the problems raised by the controversy.

Why, for instance, did the voters in the Harlem district — which is predominantly Negro — ignore the resolution adopted by the House in 1967 and proceed thereafter to elect Powell twice?

Why did the parishioners of the church of which Powell is pastor continue to support him, even though the House formally declared he had misused $40,000 of public funds?

THE ANSWERS ARE to be found in a single word — distortion. The Negroes were led to believe that it was merely a racial conflict and that the charges were untrue or that similar misdeeds allegedly committed by other members of Congress had been condoned.

To attempt, as Powell did in his Saturday news conference, to charge that the large number of Republicans who voted against him were engaged in a "sellout" to Southern Democrats is to seek to put not only a racial but a political emphasis on the whole matter.

The real question, however, is what can be done to inform Negro and white voters in congressional districts about their responsibilities. It is easy enough for Negro leaders privately to look upon Powell's behavior as wrong but they hesitate to say so openly for fear they will be denounced by the militants. At the very time when extraordinary efforts are being made by responsible citizens in all racial groups to promote understanding and harmony, the indifference of many Negro leaders to what Powell did will unquestionably increase the difficulties.

It will be necessary, too, to make further investigation of the many unlawful things that happen in campaigns, such as improper influence on voters.

SO FAR AS DISCIPLINE is concerned, the House of Representatives, under the Constitution, is the judge of the qualifications of its members and what is meant by "disorderly behavior." Many people are asking, however, why the Department of Justice has refrained from pressing effectively any prosecution since 1967, when the misuse of funds was officially disclosed.

The talk around Washington is that fear of the ill effects on the Democratic administration's political fortunes was an important reason for the prolonged inaction.

A press release was issued Dec. 9 stating that a federal grand jury had been investigating the allegations against Powell and that "the Department of Justice didn't recommend an indictment and none was returned.

Planning

The report assigned numbtrs to each project, from 1 to 15, spelling them out on the last five pages of Volume II of the comprehensive plan. Here's a paraphrase of the planners' recommendations.

1. Local street improvement program. Asserting that poorly - maintained community facilities contribute to a deterioration in housing conditions, the report, recommends establishment of neighborhood citizens' groups to work with the city government in devising plans for upgrading both streets and drainage facilities. It includes a recommendation for elimination of open ditch drains.

2. Storm sewer improvements. This section calls particularly for enclosing the stretch of the East End Run in the Mulberry St. area and cleaning out the bed of the stream from that point to the Ohio River.

3. Sanitary sewer projects. Extension of sanitary sewer service to the Sunset Dr., Gardendale and Sunnyside areas and the eastern section of Pleasant Heights is recommended in the proposed program. Enabling legislation already has been approved for the Sunset Dr. sewer.

4. Off-street parking. Noting that "substantial progres already has been made," the report calls especially for multi - level garages in a way of conserving land in the central business district and providing parking within reasonable distance of the shopping district. Conversion of the Ceramic Lot to a big multi-level parking facility already is under consideration.

5. Parks and recreation. This proposal calls for a long-rang park and recreation program for all ages to be set up in coordination with neighborhood citizens' groups. It recommends acquisition of vacant land or "blighted" buildings, but voters last November turned down a half-mill levy to finance the activities and the pay of a full-time director.

6. North Side fire station. The report lists the structure at St. Clair and McKinnon Ave. as the only fire station in the city that is in "unsatisfactory condition." It recommends that the present building be replaced or "adequately rehabilitated." Several similar recommendations have been made by city administrations over the last 10 or more years.

7. MAINE Blvd. The report calls for surfacing of the street to give "adequate access to the existing major street system," pointing out its new importance with the opening of the two new schools last fall. It calls for a "new major local thoroughfare route" starting at Jennings and St. Clair Aves. and following McKinnon Ave., Maine Blvd., Ambrose Ave. and Bradshaw Ave.

8. Business district street and sidewalk improvements. General renovation of streets and sidewalks in the shopping areas is recommended in this section, along with improvement in storm drainage facilities and possible underground relocation of some utility lines.

It recommends that as additional off - street parking spaces are created, traffic flow could be improved by eliminating some curbside parking spots.

9. Downtown beautification. This recommendation deals primarily with the widely-publicized plan to establish pedestrian malls on 5th St. between Jackson St. and Washington St. and on Washington St. between E. 5th and E. 6th Sts. It also calls for eliminating deteriorating buildings, landscaping and other beautification.

10. Freeway extension. (Phase I). This paragraph calls for preparation of plans for the next stage of the Freeway eastward from W. 3rd and Monroe Sts. to a point just west of Mulberry St. Updating of the preliminary survey already is underway by the Ohio Highway Department.

11. Urban renewal. "urban Renewal" is an all-inclusive term used in the federal housing act covering one or a combination of techniques used to eliminate existing sub-standard housing conditions and to prevent blight.

The techniques are: Redevelopment, the acquisition of property, demolition of structures and the resale of land for rebuilding; rehabilitation, the technique by which homes below standard in condition are brought up to standard by repair and the provision of public improvements, and conservation, the technique by which the strict application of various codes helps to maintain the area and to prevent blight.

12. Riverfront park and marina. Suggestions for development of the East End, including the Mulberry St. area, call for establishment of two riverfront parks and a marina. The report asserts that the lone public boat launching area at Broadway is not sufficient to meet demands.

13. Freeway extension (Phase II). This section calls for planning the extension of the Freeway from Mulberry St. to the state line, pointing out it eventually will connect with the Beaver Valley Expressway. It also asserts that the expressway "probably will supersede existing U.S. Route 30 as the main east-west link between the East Liverpool area and Pittsburgh."

14. Other urban renewal projects. a recommendation for renovation of "blighted" structures highlights this segment. It says that some deteriorated structures will have to be removed as part of a citywide program, but it adds that it appears most can be repaired.

15. Large community park. This segment calls for establishment of a "second community park, similar to Thompson Park, in the Jethro Run area." It says that financial aid might be obtained from the county or possibly from the federal government under the "open space land program" of the Housing Act of 1961.

Roger E. Pattison, 40, of Van Buren Homes, Apartment 66A, Beaver, was driving a Humble Oil Co. trailer loaded with 7,600 gallons of gasoline north on Route 7 about 115 feet south of Rogers at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday when a car operated by Dennis W. Deem, 29, of Depot St., Rogers, backed from a private drive into the path of the truck.

The truck hit the car, then went off the west side of the road, striking a guardrail and utility pole and rolling over and catching fire.

Pattison was admitted to Salem City Hospital with burns over 20 per cent of his body. He was listed as "fair" this morning.

Volunteer firemen from Rogers, Lisbon, East Palestine, Negley and Calcutta were on the scene for four and a half hours. The Rogers department first answered the call at 6:45.

Earl Cusick of Rogers motored to Negley to send for help because telephone lines in Rogers were down as a result of the accident. Marshal Sidney Cowan notified the sheriff's office by car-telephone.

The roof, siding and windows of Thurman Mercer's country store were damaged and a tree caught fire.

No one was injured in another truck accident on Route 7 south of Rogers at 11 p. m. Wednesday.

James E. Matheny, 25, of near Parkersburg, W. Va., was northbound on Route 7 when he saw lights ahead apparently from the previous accident, lost control of his tractor-trailer and slid off the right side of the road, striking an embankment.

Reflects Lull In Ground War

U.S. Casualties In Viet Are Lowest In 11 Weeks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. casualties in Vietnam last week were the lowest in 11 weeks, reflecting the continuing lull in the ground war. South Vietnamese and enemy casualties also were considerably less than the week before.

The U.S. Command announced today that 101 Americans were killed in action last week and 599 were wounded, the lowest American casualties since the week of Oct. 13-19, when 100 were killed and 589 were wounded.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 150 government troops killed and 602 wounded, a sizable decrease from the 279 killed and 901 wounded the previous week. The two commands reported at least 1,846 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed, compared with 2,135 the week before.

The report for the last week of 1968 brought the total American combat casualties since Jan. 1, 1961, to 30,644 killed, 192,926 wounded and 1,238 missing or captured; in those eight years, the U.S. Command said, at least 431,736 of the enemy have been killed.

In the seven and a half months after the preliminary peace talks opened in Paris on May 13, a total of 7,693 Americans, 9,020 South Vietnamese military personnel, and 83,180 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were reported killed.

Despite more than 100 allied sweeping operations under way throughout South Vietnam, only fleeting and scattered contact with Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces was reported again today.

The sweeps continued to uncover significant enemy stocks of food and weapons. One U.S. air cavalry unit bagged eight bicycles in working condition northwest of Saigon.

Harassing Viet Cong mortar and rocket fire fell on two provincial capitals, a district town and an American artillery camp during the night, military authorities reported.

They said damage and casualties were light.

The shellings were in line with the Viet Cong's recent strategy: a hit-and-run war of attribition while avoiding major risks or battles.

Their targets were the highland city of Kontum, the district town of Lai Thieu eight miles from Saigon and a U.S. 25th Infantry Division camp in rubber plantation country about 40 miles northwest of Saigon.

Three government pacification workers were reported killed in Lai Thieu.

The U.S. Command said the heaviest ground fighting in the country Wednesday occurred 60 miles north of Saigon where troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division encountered a North Vietnamese force and called in helicopter gunships and artillery. Twenty-seven North Vietnamese bodies were found; fourteen Americans were wounded four of them seriously.

The Viet Cong radio was trying to inspire student demonstrations in Saigon today in observance of the 19th anniversary of the founding of the Viet Minh Student Liberation Movement. Some minority Buddhist groups had hinted they might join any demonstrations, but the broadcast appeal apparently went unheeded.

On the political front, President Nguyen Van Thieu reiterated today that he would "never accept" the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front as an equal party to the Paris peace talks.

Thieu also welcomed President-elect Nixon's appointment of Henry Cabot Lodge, the former ambassador to South Vietnam, to the post of chief U.S. negotiator at the talks.

"We believe that Ambassador Lodge knows South Vietnam and understands South Vietnam's problems better than anyone else," Thieu said.

"The only thing we demand," he said, "is that it is a two-sided conference to discuss very fast and end very fast the war. That is what we want."

Nixon Celebrates 56th Birthday

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect Nixon will celebrate his 56th birthday tonight by flying to Northampton, Mass., for a festive dinner with daughter Julie and son-in-law David Eisenhower.

Nixon and wife Pat planned to arrive around dusk at the $95-a-month apartment of David and Julie, married here Dec. 22. The small apartment is across the street from the Smith College campus where Mrs. Eisenhower is a student. Her husband commutes to classes at nearby Amherst College.

The President-elect, who planned to return to New York later tonight, was born in 1913 in a two-story frame house at Yorba Linda, Calif., near Los Angeles.

The birthplace sat in the middle of a failing lemon grove planted by Nixon's father. Long after the elder Nixon sold the property it became the site of an oil discovery that would have made the family millionaires.

Nixon spent much of Wednesday working on his inaugural address, a chore that has occupied him off and on for more than a month. Several speechwriters also have been employed at the task. The President-elect, who has been reading of past inaugurals, wants to set the tone for his new administration with the Jan. 20 address that will be carried to the nation by television and radio networks.

Rep. Lukens Sworn In As Congress Member

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Donald E. Lukens, R - Ohio, whose return to Washington was delayed by a bout with malaria, was sworn in by Speaker John W. McCormack Wednesday.

Lukens was hospitalized in Paris after returning from a trip to Biafra sponsored by the National Catholic Relief Service.

W. Va. Court Will Ponder Sheriff Vote

A dispute over the outcome of the election for sheriff in Hancock County was taken under consideration by the West Virginia Supreme Court after arguments at Charleston Wednesday.

In the proceeding, Republican nominee Ralph J. Patrick Jr. has challenged the legality of the declared victory of his democratic opponent for sheriff, Lou Smoleski.

At the conclusion of a recount, the Hancock County Court declared Smoleski elected by a margin of 27 votes over Patrick — 9,228 to 9,201.

But Patrick's attorneys maintained in the Supreme Court proceeding that the 776 ballots cast in Precinct 32, in Butler District, should be declared void because none was endorsed with the "names of two duly - appointed and legally-qualified poll clerks" as required by law. Throwing out the Precinct 32 votes would leave Patrick the winner by 118 votes — 8,897 to 8,779.

At the finish of oral arguments, the Supreme Court gave Patrick's attorneys five days in which to file supplemental briefs and attorneys for Smoleski and the County Court five days after that to file briefs in reply.

600 meters from the base and ran for it," said one of the men. "The men carried the children . . . and a lot of those who didn't make it were women and children."

He estimated about 30 members of the group failed to get across the base's barbed wire fence.

Warrants Prepared On Parking Charges

Warrants will be obtained in Municipal Court soon for about 25 motorists who ignored warnings to pay the penalty on 1968 parking tickets, Mrs. Leah Kelly, "Meter Maid" supervisor, said today.

Warnings were issued to the dilatory drivers last fall, but only a comparative few responded. An overtime parking ticket may be settled for $1 within 24 hours after issuance. Then the charge goes to $2.

Drivers haled into court face the possibility of paying costs in addition to a fine on the first ticket and the usual penalty of $2 on the balance. Mrs. Kelly said the 25 warrants in process now represent only the first installment in a series of charges that will be filed.

Personalities In The News

Morgan, who posed as a lawyer for years before being sent to prison in 1961, asked the court Wednesday to appoint a lawyer for him. He pleaded poor health due, he said, to "uncivilized treatment" at Leavenworth federal prison.

Morgan's appeal, expected to go before the Supreme Court in a month or two, grew out of his claim that he was drugged, battered, clubbed and choked at Leavenworth.

His imprisonment and early release had not removed his taste for litigation and he first told the court he wanted to plead his own case.

Morgan, who lives in Washington, asked the court Wednesday for a free lawyer because he said he was "a poor person without funds."

The court is likely to meet his request.

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has been elected a member of the board of directors of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., and Encyclopaedia Britannica Education Corp., and will be chairman of the board of consultations of the educational company.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien, who announced this week his resignation as Democratic national chairman, has been named president of McDonnell & Co., Inc., a New York investment banking firm.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Aristotle Onassis has stopped receiving her $10,000-a-year presidential widow's pension at her own request.

The Treasury said Wednesday that the widow of President John F. Kennedy asked in a letter in late October that the pension end as of Oct. 1. She married Onassis, the Greek millionaire, on Oct. 20.

Legal authorities had disagreed over whether a presidential widow should continue to receive the pension after her remarriage.

Faubus said Wednesday he had taken the post with the cartoon-character hillbilly community near Harrison because he thinks developing tourist attractions is the best way to help Arkansas' economy. He said he would live there.

The community was built as a tourist attraction, and plans for its expansion have been announced.

Since he left office two years ago Faubus has been writing his World War II memoirs, operating a weekly newspaper at Oazark and dabbling in politics. But he said he would stay out of politics as long as he is connected with Dogpatch.

Personalities In The News

Morgan, who posed as a lawyer for years before being sent to prison in 1961, asked the court Wednesday to appoint a lawyer for him. He pleaded poor health due, he said, to "uncivilized treatment" at Leavenworth federal prison.

Morgan's appeal, expected to go before the Supreme Court in a month or two, grew out of his claim that he was drugged, battered, clubbed and choked at Leavenworth.

His imprisonment and early release had not removed his taste for litigation and he first told the court he wanted to plead his own case.

Morgan, who lives in Washington, asked the court Wednesday for a free lawyer because he said he was "a poor person without funds."

The court is likely to meet his request.

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has been elected a member of the board of directors of Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., and Encyclopaedia Britannica Education Corp., and will be chairman of the board of consultations of the educational company.

The election was announced Wednesday by William Benton, publisher and chairman of the firm.

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawrence F. O'Brien, who announced this week his resignation as Democratic national chairman, has been named president of McDonnell & Co., Inc., a New York investment banking firm.

O'Brien was an adviser to President Kennedy and Johnson and served as postmaster general. His appointment to the new position was announced Wednesday by T. Murray McDonnell, president and chairman of the 64-year-old firm. McDonnell will remain as company chairman.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Aristotle Onassis has stopped receiving her $10,000-a-year presidential widow's pension at her own request.

The Treasury said Wednesday that the widow of President John F. Kennedy asked in a letter in late October that the pension end as of Oct. 1. She married Onassis, the Greek millionaire, on Oct. 20.

Legal authorities had disagreed over whether a presidential widow should continue to receive the pension after her remarriage.

Faubus said Wednesday he had taken the post with the cartoon-character hillbilly community near Harrison because he thinks developing tourist attractions is the best way to help Arkansas' economy. He said he would live there.

The community was built as a tourist attraction, and plans for its expansion have been announced.

Since he left office two years ago Faubus has been writing his World War II memoirs, operating a weekly newspaper at Oazark and dabbling in politics. But he said he would stay out of politics as long as he is connected with Dogpatch.

BIG DUCT FOR A BIG ENGINE. Full-scale mockup of reportedly the world's largest inlet duct for an aircraft engine takes shape in California. Called the "S-duct," it will channel air from atop the fuselage of Lockheed's L-1011 advanced trijet to its No. 2 engine located at the rear. When completed, the duct will be 30 feet long by more than seven feet in diameter.

Willison, Minerva RD, failure to display warning light on extended load, $25; Paul Fatherly, Lisbon RD 5, operating motor vehicle without muffler, $15; Wilmer S. Wolfe, Lisbon, stop sign violation, $15, and Larry O. Cechura, Salineville, driving left of center, $15.

Judge J. L. MacDonald fined Gary W. Hiner, 262 Brooklyn Ave., Salem, $10 and costs for speeding. Hiner pleaded guilty.

Fines Are Assessed In Salineville Cases

SALINEVILLE — Three Salineville residents were fined by Mayor Dwayne Felton Wednesday night.

Harold Eugene Haines Jr. was assessed $5 and costs and Anthony Sevek $10 and costs, both for reckless operation, and Robert Whiteman $5 and costs for improper backing.

ANN LANDERS

Position Is Everything

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: A good friend of mine was a member of a panel (three men and three women) which presented an interesting program at a church meeting the other evening.

Dolores is a real brain but she wears her dresses too tight and too short.

When the curtains were drawn, I wanted to crawl under my seat. Dolores was seated right in the middle of the stage with her legs in a most awkward and unattractive position. Everybody could see past next Tuesday. No one paid any attention to what she was saying. They were so busy looking.

I tried to catch Dolores' eye, but we were sitting too far back. I even considered sending a note up but decided it would be too conspicuous.

The next day when I told Dolores, she was furious. She said others had mentioned it also — "when it was too late" — and added, "If you were a real friend you'd have gotten word to me at once."

Ann, I don't see how I could have walked on the stage and told her to pull her dress down. Do you?

Please say something in your column about women who don't sit properly, especially when they are appearing in public. Thank you. — DOTHAN, ALA.

Dear Dothan: NOW THAT THE SKIRTS ARE SHORTER, ALL women, whether they are on a stage or not, should be circumspect about the way they sit. Legs should be crossed at the ankle, ankle, not the knee, or both feet should be flat on the floor, side by side and the knees should be together. (Remember, girls, position is everything in life.)

Bum's Rush

Dear Ann: My wife's brother moved in with us when his mother passed away. (They used to share an apartment.) The free-loading bum is 41 years old and the agreement was that he'd stay with us until he found a roommate.

My wife promised me the limit would be three months. This week it will be 19 months that the loafer has parked his feet under our table. I'm sick of looking at him. He borrows my ties, uses my razor blades, monopolizes the TV and hogs the telephone.

We've been married five years and have no children. My wife says we can't afford a baby. (But we can afford to feed this fat clown.)

I'm slowly falling out of love with my wife and am thinking seriously of a separation. Do you feel I'm justified? A yes or a no will do. — BELLY FULL.

Dear B.F.: Yes. But first I'd try throwing the bum out.

Confidentially

To Should I Mail It?: No. You'd be sorry tomorrow. Just remember that every time you throw a little mud you lose a little ground. one day the facts will come out and you'll be happy you kept quiet.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

2 Seek To Block Sen. Byrd From Taking Chairman Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate liberals have moved to block Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., a critic of federal civil rights programs, from taking the chair of a subcommittee that influences appropriations for school desegregation programs.

Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and Rhode Island's John O. Pastore, both Democrats, have teamed up in a plan to keep Byrd from becoming chairman of the Labor-Health, Education and Welfare appropriations subcommittee.

Byrd last fall had let it be known he wanted to give up the chair of the District of Columbia appropriations subcommittee and take over the labor-HEW panel, where he would be in a position to influence and possibly restrict various welfare, education and poverty programs.

But Magnuson and Pastore would use the almost always followed seniority system to keep Byrd out of the labor-HEW position.

Magnuson would become chairman of the labor-HEW subcommittee, succeeding retiring Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama. Only Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, who is expected to keep his defense subcommittee, outranks Magnuson on labor-HEW—which last year took over the antipoverty program.

Pastore would succeed Magnuson as chairman of the independent offices subcommittee, which handles funds for the space program and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, unless Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., decided to give up agriculture and take it.

Strong supporters of Great Society-type programs will take command in areas likely to be key battlegrounds during Richard M. Nixon's administration if present intentions are confirmed when the Appropriations Committee reorganizes under its new chairman, Sen. Russell, who formerly headed the Armed Services Committee.

Russell is reported considering abolition of the special subcommittee for supplemental appropriations. In the House, each regular subcommittee handles its own supplemental requests and the full committee chairman handles the bill on the floor.

Inheritance Tax Collection Rises

The office of Auditor Roger Cloud at Columbus said the statewide collection amounted to $39,978,724, an increase of $3,600,618, over the 1967 total of $36,378,106.

Under state law, half of these collections are retained by the taxing districts, with the other half going to the state, after deductions are made covering the fees charged by the respective county auditors and treasurers to cover the cost of collection.

With these adjustments, the net collections paid to the state were $18,646,850. This was an increase of $1,485,556, or 8.6 per cent, over the 1967 state share.

Dear Dothan: NOW THAT THE SKIRTS ARE SHORTER, ALL women, whether they are on a stage or not, should be circumspect about the way they sit. Legs should be crossed at the ankle, ankle, not the knee, or both feet should be flat on the floor, side by side and the knees should be together. (Remember, girls, position is everything in life.)

Bum's Rush

Dear Ann: My wife's brother moved in with us when his mother passed away. (They used to share an apartment.) The free-loading bum is 41 years old and the agreement was that he'd stay with us until he found a roommate.

My wife promised me the limit would be three months. This week it will be 19 months that the loafer has parked his feet under our table. I'm sick of looking at him. He borrows my ties, uses my razor blades, monopolizes the TV and hogs the telephone.

We've been married five years and have no children. My wife says we can't afford a baby. (But we can afford to feed this fat clown.)

I'm slowly falling out of love with my wife and am thinking seriously of a separation. Do you feel I'm justified? A yes or a no will do. — BELLY FULL.

Dear B.F.: Yes. But first I'd try throwing the bum out.

Confidentially

To Should I Mail It?: No. You'd be sorry tomorrow. Just remember that every time you throw a little mud you lose a little ground. one day the facts will come out and you'll be happy you kept quiet.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

2 Seek To Block Sen. Byrd From Taking Chairman Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate liberals have moved to block Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., a critic of federal civil rights programs, from taking the chair of a subcommittee that influences appropriations for school desegregation programs.

Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and Rhode Island's John O. Pastore, both Democrats, have teamed up in a plan to keep Byrd from becoming chairman of the Labor-Health, Education and Welfare appropriations subcommittee.

Byrd last fall had let it be known he wanted to give up the chair of the District of Columbia appropriations subcommittee and take over the labor-HEW panel, where he would be in a position to influence and possibly restrict various welfare, education and poverty programs.

But Magnuson and Pastore would use the almost always followed seniority system to keep Byrd out of the labor-HEW position.

Magnuson would become chairman of the labor-HEW subcommittee, succeeding retiring Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama. Only Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, who is expected to keep his defense subcommittee, outranks Magnuson on labor-HEW—which last year took over the antipoverty program.

Pastore would succeed Magnuson as chairman of the independent offices subcommittee, which handles funds for the space program and the Department of Housing and Urban Development, unless Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., decided to give up agriculture and take it.

Strong supporters of Great Society-type programs will take command in areas likely to be key battlegrounds during Richard M. Nixon's administration if present intentions are confirmed when the Appropriations Committee reorganizes under its new chairman, Sen. Russell, who formerly headed the Armed Services Committee.

Russell is reported considering abolition of the special subcommittee for supplemental appropriations. In the House, each regular subcommittee handles its own supplemental requests and the full committee chairman handles the bill on the floor.

Inheritance Tax Collection Rises

The office of Auditor Roger Cloud at Columbus said the statewide collection amounted to $39,978,724, an increase of $3,600,618, over the 1967 total of $36,378,106.

Under state law, half of these collections are retained by the taxing districts, with the other half going to the state, after deductions are made covering the fees charged by the respective county auditors and treasurers to cover the cost of collection.

With these adjustments, the net collections paid to the state were $18,646,850. This was an increase of $1,485,556, or 8.6 per cent, over the 1967 state share.

College Has Court Order To Ban Teacher Pickets

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco State College was armed today with a court order banning picketing by striking teachers. But the order did not cover the students.

It was issued late Wednesday by Superior Court Judge Edward O'Day only hours after students and teachers had bombarded police with stones, bottles, sticks and fireworks during a violent melee.

And acting President S.I. Hayakawa, his voice breaking and his hands shaking slightly, told newsmen for the first time since the strike began:

"Attendance is not normal."

O'Day, acting on an application by state college trustees, temporarily banned picketing and other strike action by the American Federation of Teachers, Local 1352, Trustees also seek unspecified damages.

Wednesday's violence came after the AFT, for the second straight day, lost control of the picket line and jeering, profanity-shouting students took over.

After the line had swelled to about 1,000, police moved about 12 men into the line to open a corridor to allow nonstrikers to enter the campus.

Officers herded strikers into 19th Avenue, a main thoroughfare. Traffic was immediately backed up and street cars were brought to a standstill.

During the confusion, a striking AFT member, Ron Daidle, 32, was knocked down and injured by a street car—an incident which seemed to trigger a barrage of rocks, bottles, two-by-four lumber and fireworks at police.

Police reinforcements were rushed from staging areas and their number swelled to about 150. Mounted police galloped into the lines of retreating students.

Five persons were arrested then and police continued to pull student strike leaders from the picket line the remainder of the afternoon.

Hayakawa said "striking faculty will soon eliminate themselves" if they fail to report to work for five days, which by law means they automatically resign.

The teachers, besides supporting student demands, seek better pay, official recognition, more voice in campus policy and other demands.

Student strikers have 15 demands, including an autonomous Black Studies Department, liberal admission requirements for minority students, resignation of some school officials and amnesty for those facing discipline for strike activity.

Hayakawa told a news conference the picket line was a "marching circus" and added that "internally the campus functioned beautifully.

Of the college enrollment, about 2,000 are nonwhite and 836 are Negroes. The AFT claims to represent one-quarter of the school's 1100 faculty.

Eaton Lauds Fidel Castro In Interview

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton says Premier Fidel Castro is giving Cuba its first real chance since its discovery by Christopher Columbus.

"Castro is dedicated to the country and the people," Eaton said in an interview with the Cleveland Plain Dealer. "You can condemn him for other things, but not for that. He has set an example of hard work and thrift. And he has made the people work and develop thrift. He works 15 hours a day, seven days a week."

Eaton, chairman of the board of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and a noted breeder of champion Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn cattle, spent his 85th birthday Dec. 27 in Cuba. He had praise for Castro's experiments with cattle.

The Cuban premier bought a $100,000 Canadian bull which through artificial insemination has fathered 10,000 calves.

Eaton had left Cuba before Castro's announcement of sugar rationing, but he said "the people will not suffer."

"They use too much sugar," he said. "They put a lot in their coffee and they eat a lot of candy. Castro wants to boost the sugar crop for export."

Contrary to reports that the U.S. State Department was not informed of his plans to visit Cuba, Eaton said he had notified Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He said the reply was a form letter which indicated that no American representative would be on hand in the event of need.

Eaton was feted by foreign ambassadors and diplomats on his birthday. Castro, who was present, provided a cake decorated with a barn and cattle made of icing.

Abuses In Anti-Poverty Uncovered In California

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large number of young people who weren't entitled to federal job training funds have been enrolled in a California Neighborhood Youth Corps program, say government investigators, who only last week disclosed similar abuses in Detroit's NYC project.

The General Accounting Office, auditing arm of Congress, said examination of the work-training NYC program in Los Angeles County revealed that some participants didn't meet federal criteria, and that the eligibility of still others could not be determined because of inadequate records.

Last week, the GAO reported that federal funds had been handed out by the Neighborhood Youth Corps project in Detroit to hundreds of youngsters, including high school pupils and some college students, who didn't qualify for the assistance.

Grants to finance Neighborhood Youth Corps programs are allocated by the Labor Department, which also sets the eligibility requirements.

The NYC project is designed to provide job training for young people from low-income families, and is aimed especially at high school drop-outs. It also includes an in-school program which attempts to stop youngsters from dropping out of school.

Through last June, the Labor Department had awarded 4,800 contracts to agencies across the country under the 4-year-old program, obligating a total of $1 billion in federal funds.

Of this amount, said the GAO, $34.4 million went to the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency, official antipoverty organization of Los Angeles County, which in turn channeled money to cooperating organizations.

In addition to citing participation by ineligible youngsters, the 106-page GAO report said it found other weaknesses, including:

—Spotty attendance or non attendance by project participants in the supplementary education programs required by the Labor Department;

—Ineffective job development and followup services needed by participants to ensure meaningful permanent employment or additional training;

—Weakness in the control over and accounting for federal contributions to the program.

The GAO report spotlighted six organizations which took part during fiscal 1967, four in the Out of School Program.

Youth Opportunity Centers were not using the Labor Department's eligibility criteria in screening applicants, the GAO said, but at the same time it noted that the rules, sent to the county antipoverty agency in October, 1966, had not been distributed to the centers.

Cases Reduced For Two Courts

LISBON — Columbiana County's two Common Pleas courts reduced the number of cases pending from 913 to 893 during December.

Sixty-eight new cases were filed last month, but the courts disposed of 88 during the same period, for a net gain of 20.

Fifty of the pending cases involve criminal matters, 498 civil actions and 348 dovorce cases.

An analysis of the dispositions shows 26 cases, including 18 divorce actions, were tried to court. There were five jury trials, six cognovit and default judgments and 51 cases were settled or dismissed.

Eleven county cases remain pending before the Seventh District Court of Appeals, which ruled on four county cases in December.

Eaton had left Cuba before Castro's announcement of sugar rationing, but he said "the people will not suffer."

"They use too much sugar," he said. "They put a lot in their coffee and they eat a lot of candy. Castro wants to boost the sugar crop for export."

Contrary to reports that the U.S. State Department was not informed of his plans to visit Cuba, Eaton said he had notified Secretary of State Dean Rusk. He said the reply was a form letter which indicated that no American representative would be on hand in the event of need.

Eaton was feted by foreign ambassadors and diplomats on his birthday. Castro, who was present, provided a cake decorated with a barn and cattle made of icing.

Car Drivers Reminded On License Expiration

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Your driver's license expires on your next birthday if it comes between now and October.

Despite the expiration date printed on your current license, Fred Rice, registrar of motor vehicles, reminds drivers that the license expires this year because of legislation passed in 1967.

The new law requires the licensee's social security number for identification purposes and all Ohio drivers must have the new licenses by October.

Abuses In Anti-Poverty Uncovered In California

WASHINGTON (AP) — A large number of young people who weren't entitled to federal job training funds have been enrolled in a California Neighborhood Youth Corps program, say government investigators, who only last week disclosed similar abuses in Detroit's NYC project.

The General Accounting Office, auditing arm of Congress, said examination of the work-training NYC program in Los Angeles County revealed that some participants didn't meet federal criteria, and that the eligibility of still others could not be determined because of inadequate records.

Last week, the GAO reported that federal funds had been handed out by the Neighborhood Youth Corps project in Detroit to hundreds of youngsters, including high school pupils and some college students, who didn't qualify for the assistance.

Grants to finance Neighborhood Youth Corps programs are allocated by the Labor Department, which also sets the eligibility requirements.

The NYC project is designed to provide job training for young people from low-income families, and is aimed especially at high school drop-outs. It also includes an in-school program which attempts to stop youngsters from dropping out of school.

Through last June, the Labor Department had awarded 4,800 contracts to agencies across the country under the 4-year-old program, obligating a total of $1 billion in federal funds.

Of this amount, said the GAO, $34.4 million went to the Economic and Youth Opportunities Agency, official antipoverty organization of Los Angeles County, which in turn channeled money to cooperating organizations.

In addition to citing participation by ineligible youngsters, the 106-page GAO report said it found other weaknesses, including:

—Spotty attendance or non attendance by project participants in the supplementary education programs required by the Labor Department;

—Ineffective job development and followup services needed by participants to ensure meaningful permanent employment or additional training;

—Weakness in the control over and accounting for federal contributions to the program.

The GAO report spotlighted six organizations which took part during fiscal 1967, four in the Out of School Program.

Youth Opportunity Centers were not using the Labor Department's eligibility criteria in screening applicants, the GAO said, but at the same time it noted that the rules, sent to the county antipoverty agency in October, 1966, had not been distributed to the centers.

Cases Reduced For Two Courts

LISBON — Columbiana County's two Common Pleas courts reduced the number of cases pending from 913 to 893 during December.

Sixty-eight new cases were filed last month, but the courts disposed of 88 during the same period, for a net gain of 20.

Fifty of the pending cases involve criminal matters, 498 civil actions and 348 dovorce cases.

An analysis of the dispositions shows 26 cases, including 18 divorce actions, were tried to court. There were five jury trials, six cognovit and default judgments and 51 cases were settled or dismissed.

Eleven county cases remain pending before the Seventh District Court of Appeals, which ruled on four county cases in December.

3 In Ohio Family Found Shot To Death

COSHOCTON, Ohio (AP)—Ed Fallor of Newark went to visit his parents - in - law 20 miles southwest of here Wednesday. He looked through a window and saw blood on the floor.

Sheriff's deputies said Ralph D. Melick, 67, apparently shot his 65-year-old wife, Gladys, and their son Gail 47, with a .22 caliber rifle, then turned the gun on himself.

An official ruling in their deaths was expected today.

Snagged By Practical West, Complicated East

PARIS (AP) — American efforts to get Vietnam peace talks started are snagged by a conflict between the practical West and the complicated East.

The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have the role of spectators, watching the development of debate in their opponents' camp. That debate apparently must be settled before Washington and Saigon can put forward new proposals.

The United States wants to overleap the debate which now seems to be a major obstacle to getting the talks started quickly. This attitude calls to mind the practical approach to the case of the intelligence ship Pueblo captured by North Korea.

In the Pueblo case, the main obstacle was North Korea's insistence that the Americans confess wrongdoing and apologize before the crew would be released. Here in Paris, the problem is whether there are two sides or four involved in the Vietnam War.

To Americans the question might seem trivial alongside the major goal of getting a conference started. To the Saigon government it is a matter of importance, of prestige, involving a risk of giving "face" to the enemy and placing him in a position to demand more.

To accomplish their goal in the Pueblo case, the practical Americans ceremonially signed a confession of wrongdoing and publicly denied it at the same time.

In Paris, the United States again seems eager to take the practical approach in order to get everybody to a conference table. Once there, the Americans would affirm publicly—as they have all along—that they still adhere to the concept that there are two sides and not four in the Vietnam War. The opponents would be free to interpret the shape of the table or the seating arrangements in any way they wished.

To Saigon, at the moment, this appears to be an effort on the part of the Americans to push through concessions favoring the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. South Vietnamese sources hint fretfully that they are being subjected to American arm twisting.

A U.S. delegation spokesman says: "We are still for a two-sided conference. We have made this clear here and in Sangon. We are trying to get over the hurdle and get the talks started without surrendering the concept of two sides."

This concept could, the Americans feel, be preserved by the device of a formal, public statement, and that a dividing line at the table would then be implicit. But Saigon contends that the line must be a real one, a visible one, so that there will be no suggestion whatever that the NLF as a "reality" but not a political entry which can speak for any segment of the South Vietnamese.

The Americans have had no formal or informal contact with the North Vietnamese since Jan. 2. The prospects for the opening of peace talks in the immediate future are gloomy. Even after the inauguration of President-elect Nixon on Jan. 20, the chances are that it still will be some time before the two sides can get down to the business at hand, informed sources say.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tip For Tasty Hot Dogs

DEAR HELOISE: Those "baseball park" hot dogs always taste better because of the steamed rolls.

Heloise

Last nite while rushing to get things on the table, I grabbed my big muffin tin and put a small amount of water in each cup. Then placed the open rolls face down over the cups (not in the cups) and put them in a 350-degree oven for a few minutes.

They were just like the real things.

MRS. J. R. HOPF.

Well I'm an old gray haired mule if it doesn't work.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My brother-in-law came up with a good time saving idea for do-it yourself painters. When he stops painting for the day, or just for a coffee break, he wraps his paint brush in wax paper. An old bread wrapper works great, too.

Wrap the brush in this and put it in the freezer.

MRS. TEDDY JOHN.

DEAR HELOISE: I use sticky type carpet tape to bind the outside of children's books when the covers become worn.

The tape is extra wide and more adhesive than anything I've tried.

It looks good, too.- A FAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I wanted a bead or bamboo curtain to go over a large sliding glass door but when I priced them they were very expensive.

So, I bought some strong tape, fishing line, beads and good quality plastic straws, and started to work.

I measured the tape to a little longer than the width of my sliding doors, and made each string by knotting a bead on the end of the fishing line. Then I threaded it through the straw.

I continued alternating beads and straws all the way up until it was the length needed for the curtain. I attached these strings to the tape at the top. The strips are made the same length so that the beads line up all the way.

The finished result was a beautiful, washable curtain. And it was so much fun the entire family joined in the threading, even the smaller members.

MARY COMAS.

DEAR HELOISE: I found that when my baby got older, the original square diapers were not absorbent enough. So, I cut one in half diagonally and proceeded to sew each half onto two other diapers.

This made two heavy absorbent diapers where I originally had three thin ones.

After folding, this put the extra material where it was needed without adding too much extra thickness around the waist.

ANOTHER MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: Take a leather key case, and put all your bobby pins and safety pins on the hooks that are inside.

This way you don't have to search in your purse for pins because they're all there in one small case.

BETTY.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a helpful hint for girls wearing the new plastic shoes.

Cleaning them is no problem for me anymore. I use furniture polish with lemon oil. Just spray and wipe off. The shine lasts and, what's more, it holds up in the rain.

SHARON.

I'm alarmed at the amount of horror shows they show on TV early in the morning. Is it good for children to be exposed to so many ghosts? Please advise. Concerned

Promises Shift From Neutrality

Karami Trying To Form New Beirut Government

By The Associated Press

Rashid Karami, who promises a shift away from Lebanon's virtual neutrality in the Arab-Israeli struggle, began trying today to form a new government in Beirut.

President Charles Helou asked Karami to replace Premier Abdullah Yafi, who resigned Tuesday under fire because of Israel's destructive commando raid on Beirut's international airport.

Karami, who led the 1958 rebellion that U.S. Marines were summoned to quell, heads the Democratic Front, which commands a slight majority in Parliament.

Sources close to Karami said he would try to form a coalition government, but he is expected to have difficulty because leaders of Lebanon's Christian political parties prefer continuation of the previous ambiguous policy of virtual neutrality rather than a harder line against Israel.

Included in his party's platform are support of the Palestinian commandos and their cause, compulsory military service and adherence by Lebanon to Arab policies.

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol rejected France as a Middle East peacemaker. Addressing a conference of world Jewry, Eshkol said President Charles de Gaulle's embargo on arms shipments to Israel "damages the prospects of peace in the Middle East."

"This action can be compared to that of binding the hands of one of the disputants in an arena who is threatened by the other," Eshkol said, "and this by a third party which lays claim to objectivity and to a role of peacemaker in our area. From such a party, the call for peace sounds hollow indeed."

Addressing the same conference, Foreign Minister Abba Eban stressed the idea that Israel would not retreat from the cease-fire lines until she is assured of a lasting peace.

In Paris, the decision to embargo arms shipments to Israel was producing strains in the Gaullist ranks that appeared to be more serious than any since the Algerian war.

Informed sources said Foreign Minister Michel Debre, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer and Minister of State Roger Frey all were bitter about De Gaulle's decision.

Information Minister Joel le Theule acknowledged that the embargo had been "much debated" in the country and added: "It is noteworthy that Israeli influence has made itself felt . . . in the information media." One prominent member of France's 560,000-member Jewish community termed this statement "veiled anti-Semitism."

The only newspaper support for De Gaulle's action came from the Communist Humanite and the Gaullist La Nation.

In New York, NBC News reported Israel either has a nuclear bomb or will soon have one. It said Israel embarked on a crash program to produce a nuclear weapon two years ago.

Similar reports have circulated from time to time ever since Israel built a nuclear reactor at Dimona in 1963. Israel is known to have the technological capacity to produce such a weapon, but there has been no confirmed information that she is using the Dimona reactor for anything but peaceful purposes.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 20.

Legislature Studies Pay, School Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — State Senate and House Finance Committees pondered today expensive legislative proposals introduced Wednesday during the early hours of the 59th Legislature.

Two of the proposals, among the first to be sent to committee, would raise salaries of the executive branch of government and provide training and care for exceptional children.

The West Virginia Education Association's "Design 69," a far-reaching educational plan that could eventually cost $44 million, was due to undergo close scrutiny in the Senate Finance Committee.

The House appeared to be moving quickly on the Executive Pay Bill, giving it its first reading on the floor Wednesday and sending it to the House Finance Committee. Committee members looked over the measure today.

If the pay-raise bill received quick action by both finance committees, and normal rules were suspended, it could gain legislative approval before Monday and apply to the incoming administration of Republican Gov.-Elect Arch A. Moore Jr. The Governor's salary would be raised from $25,000 to $35,000.

Mansfield Says Democrats Should Shape Party Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says that while a Republican occupies the White House, Democrats in Congress should shape party policy and not an outside group of liberals.

Mansfield visibly shuddered when asked in an interview for an opinion on revival of the Democratic Advisory Council which spewed out party policy pronouncements during the GOP Eisenhower years.

The council, organized to emphasize a liberal viewpoint in party affairs, was continually at loggerheads with then Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Mansfield said the center of policy-making will shift from the White House to Congress when Nixon is inaugurated.

"My feeling is that the Democratic majorities in the two houses will take the lead in shaping major party policies," Mansfield said. "We can't afford to speak with many voices. There will be more than enough of that right here on Capitol Hill."

Retiring Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien had been thinking of proposing that outsiders be invited to sit in at times with the party policy committees of the two houses. Any such proposal now awaits the selection of his successor.

The Republicans also have a committee that helped shape policy while Democrats were in the White House.

But its makeup is vastly different from the Democratic Advisory Council and Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he would like to keep it functioning.

Dirksen said the committee's task during the Nixon administration should be to concentrate on producing factual background reports on major issues.

Involved in the continuance of the committee is the question of whether Ray Bliss, its presiding officer, will retain his national chairmanship.

Nixon has been urged in some quarters to replace Bliss with a better television performer. Nixon has been silent but even some of Bliss' friends are convinced it is only a matter of time until the chairmanship changes hands.

Snagged By Practical West, Complicated East

PARIS (AP) — American efforts to get Vietnam peace talks started are snagged by a conflict between the practical West and the complicated East.

The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front have the role of spectators, watching the development of debate in their opponents' camp. That debate apparently must be settled before Washington and Saigon can put forward new proposals.

The United States wants to overleap the debate which now seems to be a major obstacle to getting the talks started quickly. This attitude calls to mind the practical approach to the case of the intelligence ship Pueblo captured by North Korea.

In the Pueblo case, the main obstacle was North Korea's insistence that the Americans confess wrongdoing and apologize before the crew would be released. Here in Paris, the problem is whether there are two sides or four involved in the Vietnam War.

To Americans the question might seem trivial alongside the major goal of getting a conference started. To the Saigon government it is a matter of importance, of prestige, involving a risk of giving "face" to the enemy and placing him in a position to demand more.

To accomplish their goal in the Pueblo case, the practical Americans ceremonially signed a confession of wrongdoing and publicly denied it at the same time.

In Paris, the United States again seems eager to take the practical approach in order to get everybody to a conference table. Once there, the Americans would affirm publicly—as they have all along—that they still adhere to the concept that there are two sides and not four in the Vietnam War. The opponents would be free to interpret the shape of the table or the seating arrangements in any way they wished.

To Saigon, at the moment, this appears to be an effort on the part of the Americans to push through concessions favoring the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front. South Vietnamese sources hint fretfully that they are being subjected to American arm twisting.

A U.S. delegation spokesman says: "We are still for a two-sided conference. We have made this clear here and in Saigon. We are trying to get over the hurdle and get the talks started without surrendering the concept of two sides."

This concept could, the Americans feel, be preserved by the device of a formal, public statement, and that a dividing line at the table would then be implicit. But Saigon contends that the line must be a real one, a visible one, so that there will be no suggestion whatever that the NLF as a "reality" but not a political entry which can speak for any segment of the South Vietnamese.

The Americans have had no formal or informal contact with the North Vietnamese since Jan. 2. The prospects for the opening of peace talks in the immediate future are gloomy. Even after the inauguration of President-elect Nixon on Jan. 20, the chances are that it still will be some time before the two sides can get down to the business at hand, informed sources say.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tip For Tasty Hot Dogs

DEAR HELOISE: Those "baseball park" hot dogs always taste better because of the steamed rolls.

Heloise

Last nite while rushing to get things on the table, I grabbed my big muffin tin and put a small amount of water in each cup. Then placed the open rolls face down over the cups (not in the cups) and put them in a 350-degree oven for a few minutes.

They were just like the real things.

MRS. J. R. HOPF.

Well I'm an old gray haired mule if it doesn't work.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My brother-in-law came up with a good time saving idea for do-it yourself painters. When he stops painting for the day, or just for a coffee break, he wraps his paint brush in wax paper. An old bread wrapper works great, too.

Wrap the brush in this and put it in the freezer.

MRS. TEDDY JOHN.

DEAR HELOISE: I use sticky type carpet tape to bind the outside of children's books when the covers become worn.

The tape is extra wide and more adhesive than anything I've tried.

It looks good, too.- A FAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I wanted a bead or bamboo curtain to go over a large sliding glass door but when I priced them they were very expensive.

So, I bought some strong tape, fishing line, beads and good quality plastic straws, and started to work.

I measured the tape to a little longer than the width of my sliding doors, and made each string by knotting a bead on the end of the fishing line. Then I threaded it through the straw.

I continued alternating beads and straws all the way up until it was the length needed for the curtain. I attached these strings to the tape at the top. The strips are made the same length so that the beads line up all the way.

The finished result was a beautiful, washable curtain. And it was so much fun the entire family joined in the threading, even the smaller members.

MARY COMAS.

DEAR HELOISE: I found that when my baby got older, the original square diapers were not absorbent enough. So, I cut one in half diagonally and proceeded to sew each half onto two other diapers.

This made two heavy absorbent diapers where I originally had three thin ones.

After folding, this put the extra material where it was needed without adding too much extra thickness around the waist.

ANOTHER MOTHER.

DEAR HELOISE: Take a leather key case, and put all your bobby pins and safety pins on the hooks that are inside.

This way you don't have to search in your purse for pins because they're all there in one small case.

BETTY.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a helpful hint for girls wearing the new plastic shoes.

Cleaning them is no problem for me anymore. I use furniture polish with lemon oil. Just spray and wipe off. The shine lasts and, what's more, it holds up in the rain.

SHARON.

Dear Decibel:
I'm alarmed at the amount of horror shows they show on TV early in the morning. Is it good for children to be exposed to so many ghosts? Please advise. Concerned

Promises Shift From Neutrality

Karami Trying To Form New Beirut Government

By The Associated Press

Rashid Karami, who promises a shift away from Lebanon's virtual neutrality in the Arab-Israeli struggle, began trying today to form a new government in Beirut.

President Charles Helou asked Karami to replace Premier Abdullah Yafi, who resigned Tuesday under fire because of Israel's destructive commando raid on Beirut's international airport.

Karami, who led the 1958 rebellion that U.S. Marines were summoned to quell, heads the Democratic Front, which commands a slight majority in Parliament.

Sources close to Karami said he would try to form a coalition government, but he is expected to have difficulty because leaders of Lebanon's Christian political parties prefer continuation of the previous ambiguous policy of virtual neutrality rather than a harder line against Israel.

Included in his party's platform are support of the Palestinian commandos and their cause, compulsory military service and adherence by Lebanon to Arab policies.

In Jerusalem, meanwhile, Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol rejected France as a Middle East peacemaker. Addressing a conference of world Jewry, Eshkol said President Charles de Gaulle's embargo on arms shipments to Israel "damages the prospects of peace in the Middle East."

"This action can be compared to that of binding the hands of one of the disputants in an arena who is threatened by the other," Eshkol said, "and this by a third party which lays claim to objectivity and to a role of peacemaker in our area. From such a party, the call for peace sounds hollow indeed."

Addressing the same conference, Foreign Minister Abba Eban stressed the idea that Israel would not retreat from the cease-fire lines until she is assured of a lasting peace.

In Paris, the decision to embargo arms shipments to Israel was producing strains in the Gaullist ranks that appeared to be more serious than any since the Algerian war.

Informed sources said Foreign Minister Michel Debre, Defense Minister Pierre Messmer and Minister of State Roger Frey all were bitter about De Gaulle's decision.

Information Minister Joel le Theule acknowledged that the embargo had been "much debated" in the country and added: "It is noteworthy that Israeli influence has made itself felt . . . in the information media." One prominent member of France's 560,000-member Jewish community termed this statement "veiled anti-Semitism."

The only newspaper support for De Gaulle's action came from the Communist Humanite and the Gaullist La Nation.

In New York, NBC News reported Israel either has a nuclear bomb or will soon have one. It said Israel embarked on a crash program to produce a nuclear weapon two years ago.

Similar reports have circulated from time to time ever since Israel built a nuclear reactor at Dimona in 1963. Israel is known to have the technological capacity to produce such a weapon, but there has been no confirmed information that she is using the Dimona reactor for anything but peaceful purposes.

Legislature Studies Pay, School Bills

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — State Senate and House Finance Committees pondered today expensive legislative proposals introduced Wednesday during the early hours of the 59th Legislature.

Two of the proposals, among the first to be sent to committee, would raise salaries of the executive branch of government and provide training and care for exceptional children.

The West Virginia Education Association's "Design 69," a far-reaching educational plan that could eventually cost $44 million, was due to undergo close scrutiny in the Senate Finance Committee.

The House appeared to be moving quickly on the Executive Pay Bill, giving it its first reading on the floor Wednesday and sending it to the House Finance Committee. Committee members looked over the measure today.

If the pay-raise bill received quick action by both finance committees, and normal rules were suspended, it could gain legislative approval before Monday and apply to the incoming administration of Republican Gov.-Elect Arch A. Moore Jr. The Governor's salary would be raised from $25,000 to $35,000.

Mansfield Says Democrats Should Shape Party Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield says that while a Republican occupies the White House, Democrats in Congress should shape party policy and not an outside group of liberals.

Mansfield visibly shuddered when asked in an interview for an opinion on revival of the Democratic Advisory Council which spewed out party policy pronouncements during the GOP Eisenhower years.

The council, organized to emphasize a liberal viewpoint in party affairs, was continually at loggerheads with then Democratic Senate Leader Lyndon B. Johnson and the late House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Mansfield said the center of policy-making will shift from the White House to Congress when Nixon is inaugurated.

"My feeling is that the Democratic majorities in the two houses will take the lead in shaping major party policies," Mansfield said. "We can't afford to speak with many voices. There will be more than enough of that right here on Capitol Hill."

Retiring Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien had been thinking of proposing that outsiders be invited to sit in at times with the party policy committees of the two houses. Any such proposal now awaits the selection of his successor.

The Republicans also have a committee that helped shape policy while Democrats were in the White House.

But its makeup is vastly different from the Democratic Advisory Council and Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he would like to keep it functioning.

Dirksen said the committee's task during the Nixon administration should be to concentrate on producing factual background reports on major issues.

Involved in the continuance of the committee is the question of whether Ray Bliss, its presiding officer, will retain his national chairmanship.

Nixon has been urged in some quarters to replace Bliss with a better television performer. Nixon has been silent but even some of Bliss' friends are convinced it is only a matter of time until the chairmanship changes hands.

The DOCTOR Says

Drugs Can't Relieve Nervous Tension

Q—I perspire heavily, even in the coldest weather. Is this a nervous reaction? Would decreasing my intake of fluids help?

Dr. Brandstadt

A — A nervous reaction is the most likely cause. You should keep up your intake of fluids to prevent dehydration. Such antiperspirants as AHR 483, benzoyl scopalamine hydrobromide and Oilatum Cream are safe and effective.

Q— Whenever I meet a stranger or have to recite in class, my heart pounds, my voice quavers, my hands perspire and I feel faint. My doctor says the cause is too much adrenalin. He prescribed a tranquilizer but it doesn't help. Is there any way to get relief?

A—In situations that appear to be threatening, not necessarily to your safety but to your peace of mind, your adrenals put out a hormone that increases your heart rate and muscle power. Its purpose is to aid you in fight or flight. If you do neither, the result may be sweating and a let-down feeling.

EVEN SEASONED actors have this reaction — stage fright — each night when they first step before the footlights. By long practice and by thinking of the audience instead of themselves, they learn to overcome it and so can you. Drugs are not the answer.

Q—What causes nervous tension? What are the symptoms? Is there any cure for it?

A—Nervous tension in moderation is essential to life but, when carried to excess, it can lower your efficiency. It may be caused by worry, fright, impatience or frustration and may produce such symptoms as headache, backache, a feeling of tightness in the neck or chest and acid indigestion. Over a period of years, it may cause high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and premature aging.

ALTHOUGH THERE is no easy cure for nervous tension, much can be accomplished by taking stock of the factors in your way of living that add to your stress, by eliminating as many of these as you can, by eating your meals slowly in a relaxed atmosphere, by keeping regular hours and getting some physical exercise every day and getting adequate sleep and by learning to relax completely when you go to bed.

Q — I have heard that the male hormone of her twin brother prevents a twin sister from having children when she grows up. Is this true?

A—This is not true for any mammal, including man.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Review. Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Minshall Hits Report On High Post Offer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William E. Minshall, R - Ohio, denied Wednesday reports that he has been offered a high position in the Defense or Transportation departments by President-elect Nixon.

Minshall said, "I consider it an honor and a privilege to represent the 23rd Congressional District and I intend to continue my legislative services."

Man Gives Up After Slaying 2 FBI Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man charged with slaying two FBI agents surrendered meekly in the attic of an apartment house Wednesday night, climaxing an intense house-to-house manhunt in the Capital's South East section.

The capture of Billie Austin Bryant, 38-year-old auto repairman and prison escapee, came less than seven hours after the agents who sought to question him about a bank robbery were found dead in the hallway of his estranged wife's home.

The slain agents were Anthony Palmisano, 26, and Edwin Woodriffe, 27, a Negro and the first of his race to die in the line of duty with the FBI.

The slayings, which touched off a search by hundreds of police dogs, and submachine gun-toting colleagues of the dead agents, followed by less than two hours the armed holdup of a suburban Maryland Savings and Loan company.

A teller had reported Bryant's name to police, saying she recognized him as a former customer.

Bryant, sought since he escaped from the nearby Lorton Reformatory in Virginia last August, was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on two counts of murder and held without bail until a hearing Jan. 23.

The agents were the 22nd and 23rd to be killed on duty in the history of the bureau. Only once before—in 1934—were two agents killed at the same time.

The bodies of the agents were found by a policeman lying one atop the other after a report was broadcast that a policeman had been shot.

Two helicopters hovered over the rundown section bordered by a wooded area as law officers, many wearing armored vests, searched along a stream bed and began combing nearby houses.

Bryant was wanted for escaping from the federal Lorton Reformatory Aug. 29, when he crashed a car through a chain-link fence. He had served less than a year of an 18-to54-year sentence for robbing a Maryland Savings and Loan firm.

The 6-foot-2, 170-pound Bryant, a skilled auto repairman and a native of Mt. Olive, N.C., had lived "for at least two or three years" at the apartment where the agents were slain, its manager, Harry Cohen, said.

Robert Ross, who lives in the building where Bryant was captured, said his wife heard noises in the attic shortly after noon. After they persisted into the evening, he called police.

Police Capt. Charles M. Monroe, head of the Special Operations Division, called into the attic and asked if Bryant were there. The man called back through a trap door that he was Bryant, and Monroe ordered him to throw down his weapons. A revolver came through the trap door, and Bryant followed it.

Monroe described him as meek.

Woodriffe was married and had two children. He became an agent in May 1967 and was assigned to Washington last Feb. 28 after being stationed in Cleveland.

Leigh Hunt, Percy Bysshe Shelley and John Keats were called the "Cockney Poets."

Bid For Self-Government

Dissident Negro Students Seize Brandeis Building

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Dissident Negro students crippled the Brandeis University communications system Wednesday in a nonviolent bid for virtual automony in Negro affairs on campus.

University President Morris B. Abram called the seizure of Ford Hall an affront to the university community. The faculty voted condemnation of the action and called on the approximately 70 Negroes to abandon their demonstration.

The students answered by barricading doors to the three-story red brick building. They said they had enough food stockpiled to last three days.

Wednesday night Abram entered Ford Hall for about 10 minutes to talk with the students.

In a statement following the brief meeting, Abram said he "had no intentions of negotiating the demands under the present circumstances."

Negro men blocked entrances to the building which houses the university switchboard, faculty offices and an auditorium. They also barred doors to an adjacent building containing laboratories and the university computer.

Abram said the last thing he wanted to do was to summon police.

"The university is a very fragile institution," he said. "It cannot function in an atmosphere of violence."

But he conceded that the university "does not have sufficient force to vacate the building."

—Establishment of an African studies department with power to hire and fire and an independent budget.

Abram contended that the students acted "without prior complaint to the administration."

He said that lines of communications within Brandeis have "always been open and have been blocked only by the force employes by those who have seized the facilities . . .

After a 2½ hour meeting, the faculty voted 153-18 to "utterly condemn the forcible takeover of the university premises. We believe we cannot confront the problems of the university under threat and coercion. The faculty demands that the students involved vacate Ford Hall and enter negotiations of any grievance with the university administration."

The dean of faculty, Peter Diamondopoulos, delivered a copy of the resolution to the Negro students and asked them to leave. They refused.

There are 110 Negroes among Brandeis' 2,600 students. The private school is located 10 miles west of Boston.

Abram, who took over the presidency last September, said he has overseen the university's efforts to establish 10 Martin Luther King scholarships; a concentration in Afro-American studies; an intensified recruitment program which has resulted in doubling the black enrollment and a similar recruitment program for the employment of blacks.

Introduced In House

5 Changes Are Proposed In W. Va. Constitution

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Three once-rejected proposed constitutional amendments and two new suggested changes in the state's basic document were introduced in the House Wednesday, during the early hours of the 59th Legislature.

The proposals, if approved by the lawmakers and passed by the voters in the 1970 election, would:

— Permit a governor to serve two successive terms. A third term would not be permitted without an intervening four years.

— Raise legislative salaries from the current $1,500 a year to $2,500 annually:

— And reimburse legislators for "reasonable and necessary expenses" incurred in performing their duties and entitle them to expense allowance up to $100 monthly during the period when the legislature is not in regular session.

— Permit adoption of excess tax levies for schools upon approval of a simple majority of those voting in a local election. Passage now requires 60 per cent approval.

— Empower the legislature to provide for "direct financial grants to counties and municipalities" and "sharing of state taxes or other revenues with counties and municipalities."

Before a proposed amendment may be offered for ratification by the voters, it must be approved in the House and Senate by two-thirds of the respective members.

In the 1966 general election, voters rejected proposals similar to Wednesday's measures on gubernatorial succession, legislative pay and school votes.

Speaker Ivor F. Boiarsky, D-Kanawha, who proposed the gubernatorial amendment, sent all five to the house's constitutional revision committee.

It was announced there will be no meeting of county grange officers this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm served refreshments. Mt. Nebo grangers served lunch Tuesday night when the county 4-H Steer Club met at the hall.

The DOCTOR Says

Drugs Can't Relieve Nervous Tension

Q—I perspire heavily, even in the coldest weather. Is this a nervous reaction? Would decreasing my intake of fluids help?

Dr. Brandstadt

A — A nervous reaction is the most likely cause. You should keep up your intake of fluids to prevent dehydration. Such antiperspirants as AHR 483, benzoyl scopalamine hydrobromide and Oilatum Cream are safe and effective.

Q— Whenever I meet a stranger or have to recite in class, my heart pounds, my voice quavers, my hands perspire and I feel faint. My doctor says the cause is too much adrenalin. He prescribed a tranquilizer but it doesn't help. Is there any way to get relief?

A—In situations that appear to be threatening, not necessarily to your safety but to your peace of mind, your adrenals put out a hormone that increases your heart rate and muscle power. Its purpose is to aid you in fight or flight. If you do neither, the result may be sweating and a let-down feeling.

EVEN SEASONED actors have this reaction — stage fright — each night when they first step before the footlights. By long practice and by thinking of the audience instead of themselves, they learn to overcome it and so can you. Drugs are not the answer.

Q—What causes nervous tension? What are the symptoms? Is there any cure for it?

A—Nervous tension in moderation is essential to life but, when carried to excess, it can lower your efficiency. It may be caused by worry, fright, impatience or frustration and may produce such symptoms as headache, backache, a feeling of tightness in the neck or chest and acid indigestion. Over a period of years, it may cause high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries and premature aging.

ALTHOUGH THERE is no easy cure for nervous tension, much can be accomplished by taking stock of the factors in your way of living that add to your stress, by eliminating as many of these as you can, by eating your meals slowly in a relaxed atmosphere, by keeping regular hours and getting some physical exercise every day and getting adequate sleep and by learning to relax completely when you go to bed.

Q — I have heard that the male hormone of her twin brother prevents a twin sister from having children when she grows up. Is this true?

Man Gives Up After Slaying 2 FBI Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man charged with slaying two FBI agents surrendered meekly in the attic of an apartment house Wednesday night, climaxing an intense house-to-house manhunt in the Capital's South East section.

The capture of Billie Austin Bryant, 38-year-old auto repairman and prison escapee, came less than seven hours after the agents who sought to question him about a bank robbery were found dead in the hallway of his estranged wife's home.

The slain agents were Anthony Palmisano, 26, and Edwin Woodriffe, 27, a Negro and the first of his race to die in the line of duty with the FBI.

The slayings, which touched off a search by hundreds of police dogs, and submachine gun-toting colleagues of the dead agents, followed by less than two hours the armed holdup of a suburban Maryland Savings and Loan company.

A teller had reported Bryant's name to police, saying she recognized him as a former customer.

Bryant, sought since he escaped from the nearby Lorton Reformatory in Virginia last August, was arraigned before a U.S. commissioner on two counts of murder and held without bail until a hearing Jan. 23.

The agents were the 22nd and 23rd to be killed on duty in the history of the bureau. Only once before—in 1934—were two agents killed at the same time.

The bodies of the agents were found by a policeman lying one atop the other after a report was broadcast that a policeman had been shot.

Two helicopters hovered over the rundown section bordered by a wooded area as law officers, many wearing armored vests, searched along a stream bed and began combing nearby houses.

Bryant was wanted for escaping from the federal Lorton Reformatory Aug. 29, when he crashed a car through a chain-link fence. He had served less than a year of an 18-to54-year sentence for robbing a Maryland Savings and Loan firm.

The 6-foot-2, 170-pound Bryant, a skilled auto repairman and a native of Mt. Olive, N.C., had lived "for at least two or three years" at the apartment where the agents were slain, its manager, Harry Cohen, said.

Robert Ross, who lives in the building where Bryant was captured, said his wife heard noises in the attic shortly after noon. After they persisted into the evening, he called police.

Police Capt. Charles M. Monroe, head of the Special Operations Division, called into the attic and asked if Bryant were there. The man called back through a trap door that he was Bryant, and Monroe ordered him to throw down his weapons. A revolver came through the trap door, and Bryant followed it.

Monroe described him as meek.

Woodriffe was married and had two children. He became an agent in May 1967 and was assigned to Washington last Feb. 28 after being stationed in Cleveland.

Bid For Self-Government

Dissident Negro Students Seize Brandeis Building

WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — Dissident Negro students crippled the Brandeis University communications system Wednesday in a nonviolent bid for virtual automony in Negro affairs on campus.

University President Morris B. Abram called the seizure of Ford Hall an affront to the university community. The faculty voted condemnation of the action and called on the approximately 70 Negroes to abandon their demonstration.

The students answered by barricading doors to the three-story red brick building. They said they had enough food stockpiled to last three days.

Wednesday night Abram entered Ford Hall for about 10 minutes to talk with the students.

In a statement following the brief meeting, Abram said he "had no intentions of negotiating the demands under the present circumstances."

Negro men blocked entrances to the building which houses the university switchboard, faculty offices and an auditorium. They also barred doors to an adjacent building containing laboratories and the university computer.

Abram said the last thing he wanted to do was to summon police.

"The university is a very fragile institution," he said. "It cannot function in an atmosphere of violence."

But he conceded that the university "does not have sufficient force to vacate the building."

—Establishment of an African studies department with power to hire and fire and an independent budget.

Abram contended that the students acted "without prior complaint to the administration."

He said that lines of communications within Brandeis have "always been open and have been blocked only by the force employes by those who have seized the facilities . . .

After a 2½ hour meeting, the faculty voted 153-18 to "utterly condemn the forcible takeover of the university premises. We believe we cannot confront the problems of the university under threat and coercion. The faculty demands that the students involved vacate Ford Hall and enter negotiations of any grievance with the university administration."

The dean of faculty, Peter Diamondopoulos, delivered a copy of the resolution to the Negro students and asked them to leave. They refused.

There are 110 Negroes among Brandeis' 2,600 students. The private school is located 10 miles west of Boston.

Abram, who took over the presidency last September, said he has overseen the university's efforts to establish 10 Martin Luther King scholarships; a concentration in Afro-American studies; an intensified recruitment program which has resulted in doubling the black enrollment and a similar recruitment program for the employment of blacks.

Introduced In House

5 Changes Are Proposed In W. Va. Constitution

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Three once-rejected proposed constitutional amendments and two new suggested changes in the state's basic document were introduced in the House Wednesday, during the early hours of the 59th Legislature.

The proposals, if approved by the lawmakers and passed by the voters in the 1970 election, would:

— Permit a governor to serve two successive terms. A third term would not be permitted without an intervening four years.

— Raise legislative salaries from the current $1,500 a year to $2,500 annually.

— And reimburse legislators for "reasonable and necessary expenses" incurred in performing their duties and entitle them to expense allowance up to $100 monthly during the period when the legislature is not in regular session.

— Permit adoption of excess tax levies for schools upon approval of a simple majority of those voting in a local election. Passage now requires 60 per cent approval.

— Empower the legislature to provide for "direct financial grants to counties and municipalities" and "sharing of state taxes or other revenues with counties and municipalities."

Before a proposed amendment may be offered for ratification by the voters, it must be approved in the House and Senate by two-thirds of the respective members.

In the 1966 general election, voters rejected proposals similar to Wednesday's measures on gubernatorial succession, legislative pay and school votes.

Speaker Ivor F. Boiarsky, D-Kanawha, who proposed the gubernatorial amendment, sent all five to the house's constitutional revision committee.

30 At Meetings Of Two Granges

LISBON — Thirty attended meetings of the Mt. Nebo Subordinate and Junior Granges Wednesday night at the hall on Route 45, north of here.

It was announced there will be no meeting of county grange officers this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm served refreshments. Mt. Nebo grangers served lunch Tuesday night when the county 4-H Steer Club met at the hall.

Southern Local Board Re-Elects Maher Head

SALINEVILLE — Philip Maher of 12 N. Main St. was re-elected president of the Southern Local board of education during a reorganization at the high school Wednesday night at 7:30.

Supt. Thomas Leek reported that he has been unable to locate a nurse for the district and said anyone interested should contact him at the high school.

Board members agreed to continue meeting the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 and kept their salary at $10 for each regular meeting.

The Citizens Bank of Salineville was renamed depository agent for the board. The temporary appropriation for the first quarter was set at $200,000.

The board agreed to readvertize for meat bids. Salineville IGA, which now holds the contract has requested a raise in prices, pointing out it is losing money under the present rate.

Leek also reviewed with the board the survey report by Fred Klaer Jr. and Associates on the testing of the water wells at the high school. Apparently a third well is needed, the report pointed out, declaring that the problem is not unique for the school, since there is a shortage of water from the Steubenville to the Lisbon area.

Architect Robert Beatty is expected to present to the board a drawing of the proposed addition of six rooms at the high school as soon as he returns from Africa, Leek reported.

The board accepted the policy for free and reduced cost lunches as recommended by the Ohio Department of Education. A copy of the policy is expected to be filed with the state department by Feb. 1 as required by law.

Permission was given Supt. Leek to prepare the purchase through Title III Funds of 24 stools for mechanical drawing.

The next meeting will be Feb. 12.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

'Watch Those Kids!'

The ghosts of yesterday were at play again in Studio 41.

This is the cavernous stage at CBS' TV City that once swarmed with actors and technicians in the days of the most ambitious and still the finest weekly dramatic program in television history, "Playhouse 90."

BUT FOUR TIMES a year, lights once more flood the big stage, actors again prance across its polished floors, it comes to life like Glocca Morra.

These are the occasions when the network tapes its rare excursions into original TV drama for the "CBS Playhouse" specials.

The ghosts were out for the taping of "The Experiment," a new play by Ellen M. Violett to be telecast Feb. 25. Some of the ghosts were all too real like Martin Manulis who produced some 40 plays a year on the old "Playhouse" and does one a year for the new. And the director was Bob Butler who cut his TV teeth as an AD (assistant director) on the famous old series.

I WON'T SAY the atmosphere is quite as charged with tension now — no matter how they slice it, tape does not reach the boiling point of intensity live TV had. It also causes fewer ulcers.

Manulis once described the "Playhouse 90" operation thusly: "You do the show live for the East, watch the line replay for the West, cut your throat and go to bed."

But there is one thing the new edition has as well as the old — call it a sense of discovery. They always were discovering talent on "Playhouse 90." Not always youngsters.

Ed Wynn, near 80, turned in a dramatic performance that startled the nation. No one, not even his son, thought he had it in him. Here the word that bounces around the sets from Manulis to the grips is "Watch those kids."

THE KIDS in question are two young actors with famous lineage — Michael Douglas, son of Kirk, and Tisha Sterling, daughter of Ann Sothern's marriage to Robert Sterling.

Tisha, slender as a reed and startingly beautiful, has done some minor television and the movie, "Coogan's Bluff," but Mike is a virgin on the set. He told me he's been studying acting in New York with Wynn Handiman and he's appeared in some experimental stage plays, but this is his first bout with cameras — "They scared me at first; they come at you like some kind of outer-space monsters."

I WATCHED THEM do a scene.

"How about them," said Astin, giving me an Addams grin, "aren't they great?" I said from the scene they were.

Miss Violett's play hits an opposite side of the current coin — dealing with a youthful scientist (Douglas) who accommodates himself to the establishment, whatever his private beliefs, a drop-in rather than a drop-out.

The series is noted for highly volatile, contemporary themes, often controversial. Its first play three years ago, Ronald Ribman's "The Small World of Ollie Winter," a bitter study of a Negro soldier in Vietnam, brought stormy reaction.

A recent play, J. P. Miller's "The People Next Door," involving narcotic addition in the young, had tremendous national impact.

Southern Local Board Re-Elects Maher Head

SALINEVILLE — Philip Maher of 12 N. Main St. was re-elected president of the Southern Local board of education during a reorganization at the high school Wednesday night at 7:30.

Supt. Thomas Leek reported that he has been unable to locate a nurse for the district and said anyone interested should contact him at the high school.

Board members agreed to continue meeting the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 and kept their salary at $10 for each regular meeting.

The Citizens Bank of Salineville was renamed depository agent for the board. The temporary appropriation for the first quarter was set at $200,000.

The board agreed to readvertize for meat bids. Salineville IGA, which now holds the contract has requested a raise in prices, pointing out it is losing money under the present rate.

Leek also reviewed with the board the survey report by Fred Klaer Jr. and Associates on the testing of the water wells at the high school. Apparently a third well is needed, the report pointed out, declaring that the problem is not unique for the school, since there is a shortage of water from the Steubenville to the Lisbon area.

Architect Robert Beatty is expected to present to the board a drawing of the proposed addition of six rooms at the high school as soon as he returns from Africa, Leek reported.

The board accepted the policy for free and reduced cost lunches as recommended by the Ohio Department of Education. A copy of the policy is expected to be filed with the state department by Feb. 1 as required by law.

Permission was given Supt. Leek to prepare the purchase through Title III Funds of 24 stools for mechanical drawing.

The next meeting will be Feb. 12.

On The TV Beat

By Cecil Smith

'Watch Those Kids!'

The ghosts of yesterday were at play again in Studio 41.

This is the cavernous stage at CBS' TV City that once swarmed with actors and technicians in the days of the most ambitious and still the finest weekly dramatic program in television history, "Playhouse 90."

BUT FOUR TIMES a year, lights once more flood the big stage, actors again prance across its polished floors, it comes to life like Glocca Morra.

These are the occasions when the network tapes its rare excursions into original TV drama for the "CBS Playhouse" specials.

The ghosts were out for the taping of "The Experiment," a new play by Ellen M. Violett to be telecast Feb. 25. Some of the ghosts were all too real like Martin Manulis who produced some 40 plays a year on the old "Playhouse" and does one a year for the new. And the director was Bob Butler who cut his TV teeth as an AD (assistant director) on the famous old series.

I WON'T SAY the atmosphere is quite as charged with tension now — no matter how they slice it, tape does not reach the boiling point of intensity live TV had. It also causes fewer ulcers.

Manulis once described the "Playhouse 90" operation thusly: "You do the show live for the East, watch the line replay for the West, cut your throat and go to bed."

But there is one thing the new edition has as well as the old — call it a sense of discovery. They always were discovering talent on "Playhouse 90." Not always youngsters.

Ed Wynn, near 80, turned in a dramatic performance that startled the nation. No one, not even his son, thought he had it in him. Here the word that bounces around the sets from Manulis to the grips is "Watch those kids."

THE KIDS in question are two young actors with famous lineage — Michael Douglas, son of Kirk, and Tisha Sterling, daughter of Ann Sothern's marriage to Robert Sterling.

Tisha, slender as a reed and startingly beautiful, has done some minor television and the movie, "Coogan's Bluff," but Mike is a virgin on the set. He told me he's been studying acting in New York with Wynn Handiman and he's appeared in some experimental stage plays, but this is his first bout with cameras — "They scared me at first; they come at you like some kind of outer-space monsters."

I WATCHED THEM do a scene.

"How about them," said Astin, giving me an Addams grin, "aren't they great?" I said from the scene they were.

Miss Violett's play hits an opposite side of the current coin — dealing with a youthful scientist (Douglas) who accommodates himself to the establishment, whatever his private beliefs, a drop-in rather than a drop-out.

The series is noted for highly volatile, contemporary themes, often controversial. Its first play three years ago, Ronald Ribman's "The Small World of Ollie Winter," a bitter study of a Negro soldier in Vietnam, brought stormy reaction.

A recent play, J. P. Miller's "The People Next Door," involving narcotic addition in the young, had tremendous national impact.

"THE IDEA is that this is a playwright's theater and we give the writer every freedom to develop a contemporary theme as honestly and as powerfully as he can," says executive producer Barbara Schultz.

"There are no taboos. We are under no compulsion to do a play simply to do it. We wait until we have one we feel is really important to produce. Mostly, it's worked out well. Sometimes we've fallen on our face."

Sirhan Jury Selection To Start Monday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jury selection apparently will not start until Monday in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan trial on charges of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Defense motions took up most of Wednesday, as they did Tuesday's opening session, and defense counsel prepared more for submission today.

However, Grant B. Cooper, one of three defense attorneys, said the defense and prosecution had agreed—after a closed session in the chamber of Judge Herbert V. Walker — to begin questioning prospective jurors no later than Monday.

The trial had its first witness Wednesday—an expert on juries, William A. Goodwin, the Los Angeles County jury commissioner, testified on how prospective jurors are selected.

Sirhan, 24, a Jordanian who came to this country with his family as a boy, listened attentively. The second session lasted less than an hour.

Cooper argued that the list of prospective jurors should be set aside on the grounds of not comprising "a true cross section of the community."

Defense attorneys raised the possibility that motions for a mistrial or change of venue may be made. Cocounsel Russell B. Parsons told newsmen that the defense would be prepared to present evidence in support of a motion regarding "the saturation of publicity in this area." He said the defense is concerned about the amount and character of news stories in local news media.

Parsons declined to answer directly if this meant that the defense would seek to move the trial elsewhere. But he referred questioners to earlier defense statements that there were few places in the world where the case had not been greatly publicized.

Would this mean a motion for a mistrial was more likely? "I would say so," Parsons replied.

The slim, dark-complexioned defendant smiled and waved at his mother and two brothers as he was led into court and sat at the long counsel table. Mary Sirhan, 55, was at the rear of the room with her sons Adel, 29, and Munir, 21.

Again newsmen and the few spectators were thoroughly searched by sheriff's deputies before being admitted to the courtroom, where drape-covered steel plates over the windows are further precautions against any attempt on Sirhan's life.

Cooper presented motions to set aside the list of prospective jurors for the trial and to quash the indictment.

Judge Denies Bond Slash In Shooting Case

LISBON — Judge Raymond S. Buzzard of Common Pleas Court has refused to reduce the bond of James T. Criss, 54, of 220 Lee Ave., being held in Columbiana County Jail in default of $10,000 bond on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Lisbon police say Criss shot Glendon (Glenn) Ikirt, 49, of Pleasant Heights, Lisbon, twice with a .32-caliber pistol about 6:15 a.m. Monday outside the horse barn at the fairgrounds. Ikirt was wounded in the right forearm and left shoulder blade. Police say they have been unable to find any reason for the attack.

Judge J. L. MacDonald of County Southwest Court bound Criss over to the Grand Jury Tuesday and, at the request of the prosecutor's office, increased the defendant's bond from $5,000 to $10,000.

Once the transcript was filed in Common Pleas Court, Defense Counsel Robert Hartford of East Palestine asked Judge Buzzard to reduce the bond to $3,000 to enable Criss to make bond and enter Wade Park Veterans Hospital in Cleveland for medical attention.

The prosecutor said he considers the defendant dangerous and he would not agree to a reduction of bond unless Criss is sent to Massillon State Hospital or Lima State Hospital by the probate judge of the county. Judge Buzzard refused to reduce the bond "at this time."

The charge against Cusick will be studied by the Grand Jury which was sworn in Tuesday to investigate approximately 40 cases. A report is expected Monday.

Aliens Reminded On Their Report

Information furnished by an alien in making his annual address report to the government is confidential, Thomas M. Pederson, district director of the Cleveland Immigration and Naturalization Service office, reminded today.

The reports must be submitted during January each year by all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions.

Forms on which to submit the reports are available at any post office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Persons who are unable to pick up a form because of illness, or other persons, may have a relative or friend obtain a card for them. The card should be returned to one of these offices.

Coating Of Ice Forces Closing Of Some Schools

By The Associated Press

There were many inconveniences and persons late for work but business was only slowed by the weather.

All public school systems in Franklin, Perry, and Licking Counties were closed because of icy conditions. A scattering of school systems in southeast were closed because slick roads Ohio — as far as Marietta — raised a question about safe operation of school buses.

The Ohio Department of Highways reported that most primary and secondary roads in the state were wet and had icy spots. The turnpike across north Ohio was mostly wet.

Sirhan Jury Selection To Start Monday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jury selection apparently will not start until Monday in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan trial on charges of murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Defense motions took up most of Wednesday, as they did Tuesday's opening session, and defense counsel prepared more for submission today.

However, Grant B. Cooper, one of three defense attorneys, said the defense and prosecution had agreed—after a closed session in the chamber of Judge Herbert V. Walker — to begin questioning prospective jurors no later than Monday.

The trial had its first witness Wednesday—an expert on juries, William A. Goodwin, the Los Angeles County jury commissioner, testified on how prospective jurors are selected.

Cooper argued that the list of prospective jurors should be set aside on the grounds of not comprising "a true cross section of the community."

Defense attorneys raised the possibility that motions for a mistrial or change of venue may be made. Cocounsel Russell B. Parsons told newsmen that the defense would be prepared to present evidence in support of a motion regarding "the saturation of publicity in this area." He said the defense is concerned about the amount and character of news stories in local news media.

Parsons declined to answer directly if this meant that the defense would seek to move the trial elsewhere. But he referred questioners to earlier defense statements that there were few places in the world where the case had not been greatly publicized.

Would this mean a motion for a mistrial was more likely? "I would say so," Parsons replied.

The slim, dark-complexioned defendant smiled and waved at his mother and two brothers as he was led into court and sat at the long counsel table. Mary Sirhan, 55, was at the rear of the room with her sons Adel, 29, and Munir, 21.

Again newsmen and the few spectators were thoroughly searched by sheriff's deputies before being admitted to the courtroom, where drape-covered steel plates over the windows are further precautions against any attempt on Sirhan's life.

Cooper presented motions to set aside the list of prospective jurors for the trial and to quash the indictment.

Judge Denies Bond Slash In Shooting Case

LISBON — Judge Raymond S. Buzzard of Common Pleas Court has refused to reduce the bond of James T. Criss, 54, of 220 Lee Ave., being held in Columbiana County Jail in default of $10,000 bond on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Lisbon police say Criss shot Glendon (Glenn) Ikirt, 49, of Pleasant Heights, Lisbon, twice with a .32-caliber pistol about 6:15 a.m. Monday outside the horse barn at the fairgrounds. Ikirt was wounded in the right forearm and left shoulder blade. Police say they have been unable to find any reason for the attack.

Judge J. L. MacDonald of County Southwest Court bound Criss over to the Grand Jury Tuesday and, at the request of the prosecutor's office, increased the defendant's bond from $5,000 to $10,000.

Once the transcript was filed in Common Pleas Court, Defense Counsel Robert Hartford of East Palestine asked Judge Buzzard to reduce the bond to $3,000 to enable Criss to make bond and enter Wade Park Veterans Hospital in Cleveland for medical attention.

The prosecutor said he considers the defendant dangerous and he would not agree to a reduction of bond unless Criss is sent to Massillon State Hospital or Lima State Hospital by the probate judge of the county. Judge Buzzard refused to reduce the bond "at this time."

The charge against Ousick will be studied by the Grand Jury which was sworn in Tuesday to investigate approximately 40 cases. A report is expected Monday.

Aliens Reminded On Their Report

Information furnished by an alien in making his annual address report to the government is confidential, Thomas M. Pederson, district director of the Cleveland Immigration and Naturalization Service office, reminded today.

The reports must be submitted during January each year by all aliens in the United States, with few exceptions.

Forms on which to submit the reports are available at any post office or office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Persons who are unable to pick up a form because of illness, or other persons, may have a relative or friend obtain a card for them.

Parents or guardians of aliens under 14 years of age submit reports for such children.

By The Associated Press

A coating of ice over portions of Ohio forced the closing of a number of school districts Thursday.

There were many inconveniences and persons late for work but business was only slowed by the weather.

All public school systems in Franklin, Perry, and Licking Counties were closed because of icy conditions. A scattering of school systems in southeast were closed because slick roads Ohio — as far as Marietta — raised a question about safe operation of school buses.

Freezing rain and drizzle starting late Wednesday glazed roads in north and central Ohio. A cold front moved through the state during the night.

The Ohio Department of Highways reported that most primary and secondary roads in the state were wet and had icy spots. The turnpike across north Ohio was mostly wet.

Schools at Logan and several other systems in Hocking, Athens and Washington Counties were closed.

Look Back, Remember

By HAL BOYLE

Would you like to remember everything that ever happened to you?

Wives, elephants and male novelists are popularly supposed to have this type of total recall. They never forget because they simply can't forget. Some are even haunted for years by the license numbers of car that pass them in the street.

Such a memory, thronged by unimportant trifles, could be a confounded nuisance. But a selective memory that can recall across the years the cheerful and wry moments of the past that make us what we are is a blessing beyond price.

You've got a pretty varied stock of memories yourself if you can look back and remember when—

Half the college football players in America sought summer work as icemen because it was on such a job that famed Red Grange had kept in shape during the vacation months.

A boy became a man the day his father presented him with a gold pocket watch. It was a kind of solemn rite during which mother had to wipe away tremulous tears and every member of the family remembered thereafter.

If you told a banker you wanted to borrow money to go on a vacation, he would have thought you had taken leave of your senses.

No smell on earth was more heavenly than the smell of home-made bread being baked by mother in an old iron kitchen stove fueled by wood.

If you weren't seen in church on Sunday, everyone in the neighborhood felt sorry for you because they were sure you must be home ill.

You could tell the wealth or poverty of a family by the amount of clothing that flapped on the backyard clothesline on Monday.

You could easily tell the youngest son in a large family. As he generally wore hand-me-downs, his trousers were the ones that had the most patches.

On paydays a smoking man blew himself to a big 10-cent cigar. The rest of the week he had to be content with the six-for-a-quarter brand.

If a fellow couldn't afford to buy something, he did without it until he could.

Those were the days! remember?

Area Man's Body Hunted In River

WEIRTON — Dragging operations were to begin today for the body of a Bloomingdale area man believed to have jumped from the Ft. Steuben Bridge early Wednesday.

The search began for I. W. George, 38, after an apparently quickly - written suicide note was found in some books on the bridge Wednesday by Pete Rusnecki of Dillonvale, a state bridge inspector.

The note was not discovered until late Wednesday afternoon when Rusnecki checked the books more closely and found a note addressed to Sally George, the man's wife.

He was last seen Tuesday at 10 p.m. when he left his home for work. Authorities at the station said George failed to report for his job at midnight.

He was scheduled to appear before a railroad disciplinary hearing board Wednesday at 10:30 a. m. and was to bring the books and timetables which were found on the bridge.

Police discovered scuff marks on the bridge railing near the spot where the books and note were found.

Potters At Warren Reserve Friday, Due Home Saturday

Bruno is the East Liverpool native who coached Namath at Beaver Falls High and still coaches there. Although Namath was an all-state quarterback in high school and led the Tigers to the WPIAL title, he was also an outstanding basketball and baseball player. He even received a bonus offer from the Cardinals, but apparently Bear Bryant offered more, and "Broadway Joe," as he is now known, ended up at the University of Alabama, where he starred on the gridiron. Some people say that Namath, with his reported $400,000 bonus to sign, has done more for the image of the American football league than anyone else.

Of course there are some people who root against the Jets just because of Namath. Such trappings as a mink coat, the now shaved-off Fu Manchu mustache and the llama-skin rug in his apartment don't endear Joe to the over-30 crowd. Nor did his physical attack on a sportswriter in a bar in 1967 make him more popular.

SPEAKING OF Beaver Falls, Frank Chan's cagers were upset by Ellwood City Tuesday night. The Tigers posted a 7-1 non-league record, but are 0-2 in tough Section 3. Another Section 3 upset saw New Castle get by Aliquippa 46-42. Over the last few years the Red Hurricanes have held a jinx over the 'Quips. Aliquippa can ill afford to lose any games, as Farrell keeps rolling, with the latest win a 59-51 conquest of previously unbeaten Ambridge. The Bridgers are coached by Vic Bianchi, who taught at Midland last year while coaching at Quigley.

IF YOU attend a game between Mt. Pleasant and Bridgeport, prepare to be confused. Both teams sport a 6-4 senior named Mark Thompson who is the star of the team. The boys are unrelated, but both are quarterbacks, centers and pitchers. Bridgeport, regarded by down-river residents as one of the top Class A teams in the state, is 7-0, while Mt. Pleasant is 6-1.

Raiders 5-2, Seek Revenge

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Clint McConnell's five trek to Warren Western Reserve, which handled Niles 75-54 in its Big 8 opener and is 5-2 overall.

The Raiders are reportedly spoiling for revenge for the 67-34 thrashing handed them in the Memorial Auditorium last season. The Potters played their best ball of the season in that encounter, and will need another good effort to win Friday night.

The Raiders lost to Akron Garfield, which the Potters swamped, 59-56, and unbeaten Champion 83-71. Wins came over Canton Lincoln 62-55, Warren Harding 93-69, Austintown Fitch 71-57, Niles and Eastlake North by two points. The Raiders and Potters each beat Harding by 24 points, but both teams scored 31 points more in the intra-city battle at Warren.

Dave Harris' five starters are all 6-1 or 6-2. Fred Banson, Brian Cross and Andy Kelson go at the latter height and Alvin Burch and Jim Morales are an inch shorter. Danny Thomas, 5-11, is the top reserve. Benson and Burch were varsity substitutes last season, while the others played on an unbeaten reserve team. The Raiders use a full-court pressing defense.

East Liverpool, 7-1, will be motivated by the memories of two football losses to the Raiders. Danny Cunningham, who suffered a cut forehead in Saturday's win over Youngstown East, is ready to go again. He, Jerry Christian and John Johnson start in football as well as basketball. Rick Steffen and Bill Montgomery round out the basketball starters.

Saturday night Youngstown South invades the new gym. The Warriors are 1-2, beating Chaney 49-48 after losses to Warren Harding 62-43 and East 59-48. Last year the Potters downed South 65-48.

Otis Dancey, 6-5, is the big gun for Pete Prokop's club. Terry Davis, 6-4, and Tony Bell, 6-3, provide additional height, while 6-1 Neal Glover and 5-10 Nelson Clark are the other starters. South meets Rayen Friday night.

Dedmon Leads Tarheels Over N. Carolina State

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Lee Dedmon didn't start playing basketball until his junior year in high school and you can't blame the North Carolina State Wolfpack for wishing he had waited until his junor year n college.

Dedmon is a 6-foot-10, 195-pound sophomore at the University of North Carolina. After graduation he wants to play basketball in Europe and then in the pros. Wednesday night, however, he settled for playing basketball in Chapel Hill, N.C., and led the second-ranked Tar Heels to an 83-63 win over arch-rival N.C. State with 27 points and 11 rebounds.

The big man from Baltimore was in the starting line-up for the first time because Rusty Clark, the Tar Heels' regular center, was out with an injury.

Even a 60-foot basket as the half ended by Dick Braucher didn't help the Wolfpack. That made it 36-34 North Carolina at the intermission and the Tar Heels pulled away in the second half, scoring 13 straight points during one stretch to take a 77-53 lead.

Only two other teams in The Associated Press' Top Ten saw action. Eighth-ranked St. John's celebrated its entrance into the elite group with a 66-45 rout of Seton Hall and 10th-rated New Mexico State crushed Pan American 109-74.

St. John's had to overcome a one-man show by Seton Hall sophomore Mel "The Marvel" Knight, who scored 34 of the Pirates' 45 points. The Redmen led only 26-25 at halftime but broke it open midway through the second half after trailing 34-32 with 12:41 left. John Warren sparked the winners with 16 points.

Unbeaten New Mexico State ran up a 51-33 lead at the half and coasted to their 13th straight victory and highest point of the season.

Coach Lou Henson cleared his bench and 11 players figured in the Aggie scoring. Jeff Smith had 19, followed by Sam Lacey and Jimmy Collins with 18 apiece.

In other major games, 19th-ranked Cincinnati squeaked past crosstown rival Xavier 52-50. John Roche and Bill Walsh scored three points apiece in the final 90 seconds as South Carolina rallied to edge Maryland 69-67. Disappointing Duke got by Wake Forest 85-81.

Elsewhere, Connecticut, once a Yankee Conference power, snapped a 10-game losing streak by shooting 57 per cent and routing Syracuse 103-84. It was the Huskies' first win of the season.

Georgia Tech made 26 of 35 free throws to turn back Clemson 72-66. The Air Force Academy won its first game in seven appearances at Denver, holding off the Pioneers 78-71 after rolling to a 50-29 halftime lead. Mike Wren made five clutch points down the stretch to pace Miami of Ohio over Kent State 62-61.

Hope In Super Bowl

Maynard, Sauer Lead Jets' Receiving Corps

By ORLO ROBERTSON

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Don Maynard and George Sauer Jr., are a far cry from the usual conception of a big, rough, tough professional football player. Yet they are two of the big reasons why the New York Jets will be meeting the Baltimore Colts in Sunday's Super Bowl.

Both look more like successful young business executives, confident, fastidiously dressed, striding down Madison Avenue en route to the next financial account customer.

Personality-wise they are as different as two peas in a pod. Maynard, at 31 a veteran of 11 years in professional ball, in the prankster—ever ready with the quip. "An unusual kid," is the way coach Weeb Ewbank describes his pass catching ace.

Ewbank calls him the "human crab because he seems to be always finding fault in a joking manner." Then the roly-poly Jets coach added: "but he is a great athlete—one that doesn't smoke, never takes a drink and trains the year round even when teaching school during the off season."

"The contacts has made a different player out of him," said Ewbank. "When he first joined the club we noticed he often dropped the ball catching it over one shoulder. We sent him to an eye specialist who recommended contact lenses."

Since then he has joined with Maynard in giving the Jets one of the most feared 1-2 punches.

"I would describe George as a fast Ray Berry," said Ewbank, referring to the one-time great Baltimore end. "Berry was not fast but he ran great patterns. George is fast and also is a master at patterns."

Statistically Sauer edged Maynard 66-57 in passes caught during the past season. But Maynard hung up a pro record of yardage gained, surpassing Berry's old mark with a total of 1,297 yards and 10 touchdowns. Sauer picked up 1,141 yards and scored three touchdowns.

While sitting around the lobby of the Jets hotel headquarters, Maynard was asked what he thought of the odds which make the Colts an 18-point favorite.

"The odds make no difference to me," Maynard replied. "I never even think of them. This is just another big game. But I think I'm a better pass receiver this year chiefly because Joe (quarterback Joe Namath) and I have been working together four years. What helped make Berry so great was that he was with Johnny Unitas for 10 years."

Sauer, who celebrated his third wedding anniversary on Wednesday, was just as calm outwardly as his teammate. And he expressed surprise at the point spread.

"I've got plenty of butterflies inside of me," said the likeable youngster. "But they disappear as soon as I get into a meeting of the players or on the field."

Bullets, 76ers Win On Last-Second Shots

By The Associated Press

Pat Riley and Kojis doubled teamed the Bullets' Earl Monroe, and stole the ball with 16 seconds left. Jack Marin of Baltimore fouled San Diego's Elvin Hayes, but the rookie center missed both free throws with nine seconds remaining, giving Baltimore possession. Marin then missed a 25-foot jumper, but Unseld grabbed the rebound and put it in for victory.

Marin finished with 27 points. Kevin Loughery had 26 and Monroe 24. Hayes had 26 for the Rockets.

Paterno Rejects Offer Of Steeler Coach Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Penn State's young Joe Paterno, who spurned a half-million dollar coaching contract with the pros to stay on campus, acknowledged today he is a "corn-ball" and an "idealist."

"Some people may think I'm nuts for turning down such an offer," the slight, 42-year-old former Brown University quarterback said. "But I think there is more to life than money. I don't want to restrict myself to football."

Paterno, whose Nittany Lions now are unbeaten in 19 games, turned down Wednesday an offer from the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League which reportedly would have given him $50,000 a year for 10 years.

"I can't say what the contract was—Pittsburgh will have to do that," he added. "It would have assured me a lifetime of financial security for my family. I can never make that kind of money in college coaching, but I put more value in other things."

"I love campus life. I love the western Pennsylvania community where I live. I enjoy taking young players and watching them develop into men. I like the challenge of big-time college football."

Paterno said he resents the impression of some people that a college team to be big and successful must be crooked.

"I know from my experiences at Penn State that boys can be gentlemen and have humility on and off the field and still win," he continued. "Just because a team is good doesn't mean there are abuses, under-the-table payments and so forth.

Penn State during the past season won 10 games without a defeat, beat Kansas in the Orange Bowl and gained No. 2 ranking in The Associated Press final football poll.

Paterno, of Italian ancestry, was born in Brooklyn, the son of an attorney. He has a brother, George, who had a successful year as coach of the U.S. Maritime Academy.

He attended Brown University at Providence, R.I., where he intended to major in English and law. But he played football there under Rip Engle and when Engle went to Penn State as head coach in 1950 Joe went with him as assistant.

Colonels Beat Pacers

By The Associated Press

Louie Dampier won the night's scoring war from Connie Hawkins by four points, but it didn't help Kentucky much in its battle to overtake Minnesota in the American Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Dampier drilled in 46 points—including five three-pointers—to power the Colonels to a 109-97 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Kentucky's victory enabled the Colonels to climb into a second-place tie with the Pacers, who had won six in a row.

The Colonels, who also got 20 points from Jim Logan, leaped to a 28-15 first quarter lead and Indiana never got closer than four points after that.

Minnesota built a 70-56 halftime command, then weathered a Miami outburst in the third period, when the Flordians scored 16 straight points.

But then Hawkins and Steve Vacendak, who finished with 28, found the range and put the game out of reach late in the final quarter.

Donnie Freeman scored 27 points and Skip Thoren 24 for Miami, which had a six-game victory streak snapped.

Los Angeles made up a 13-point deficit late in the last quarter to upend Denver. After Larry Mitchell's two free throws tied the game, 108-108, George Stone hit four free throws and Warren Davis came up with a three-point play to wrap it up for the Stars.

Philadelphia Flyers Tie 4th Straight

By The Associated Press

The amazing Flyers continued their Year of the Tie Wednesday night by playing Toronto to a 4-4 National Hockey League standoff. It was their fourth straight deadlock—every game so far in 1969—sixth in the last seven games and 11 of the season.

The NHL record is 23 ties by the 1962-63 Montreal Canadiens.

In the only other action, Chicago downed St. Louis 3-1 and moved past Toronto into third place in the East Division.

Toronto Coach Punch Imlach took a Gamble named Bruce and inserted him in the nets early in the final period after the Flyers had taken a 4-3 lead against veteran goalie Johnny Bower on Guy Gendron's second goal of the game.

Gamble only had to stop three shots in the final 18 minutes—the Leafs outshot the Flyers 44-19—and Mike Walton's goal at 3:08 forged the final tie of the evening.

Gendron and Jim Johnson gave Philly a 2-0 lead but Ron Ellis, Norm Ullman and Bill Sutherland scored quick goals to give the Leafs a 3-2 lead. Flyer rookie Dick Sarrazin tied it at 21 seconds of the middle session.

Goalie Doug Favell was brilliant for the Flyers, kicking away 40 shots, while the Toronto fans booed the 44-year-old Bower, who looked bad on several occasions.

Westgate Loses Tenth

Steubenville Grant won the ninth grade game 47-30, but fell in the eighth grade contest 40-13. Snyder scored 25 in the ninth grade contest. George Hanlon led the way for Westgate in both games, netting six in the ninth grade contest and 14 in the eighth grade contest.

Only two other teams in The Associated Press' Top Ten saw action. Eighth-ranked St. John's celebrated its entrance into the elite group with a 66-45 rout of Seton Hall and 10th-rated New Mexico State crushed Pan American 109-74.

St. John's had to overcome a one-man show by Seton Hall sophomore Mel "The Marvel" Knight, who scored 34 of the Pirates' 45 points. The Redmen led only 26-25 at halftime but broke it open midway through the second half after trailing 34-32 with 12:41 left. John Warren sparked the winners with 16 points.

Unbeaten New Mexico State ran up a 51-33 lead at the half and coasted to their 13th straight victory and highest point of the season.

Coach Lou Henson cleared his bench and 11 players figured in the Aggie scoring. Jeff Smith had 19, followed by Sam Lacey and Jimmy Collins with 18 apiece.

In other major games, 19th-ranked Cincinnati squeaked past crosstown rival Xavier 52-50. John Roche and Bill Walsh scored three points apiece in the final 90 seconds as South Carolina rallied to edge Maryland 69-67. Disappointing Duke got by Wake Forest 85-81.

Elsewhere, Connecticut, once a Yankee Conference power, snapped a 10-game losing streak by shooting 57 per cent and routing Syracuse 103-84. It was the Huskies' first win of the season.

Georgia Tech made 26 of 35 free throws to turn back Clemson 72-66. The Air Force Academy won its first game in seven appearances at Denver, holding off the Pioneers 78-71 after rolling to a 50-29 halftime lead. Mike Wren made five clutch points down the stretch to pace Miami of Ohio over Kent State 62-61.

Hope In Super Bowl

Maynard, Sauer Lead Jets' Receiving Corps

By ORLO ROBERTSON

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Don Maynard and George Sauer Jr., are a far cry from the usual conception of a big, rough, tough professional football player. Yet they are two of the big reasons why the New York Jets will be meeting the Baltimore Colts in Sunday's Super Bowl.

Both look more like successful young business executives, confident, fastidiously dressed, striding down Madison Avenue en route to the next financial account customer.

Personality-wise they are as different as two peas in a pod. Maynard, at 31 a veteran of 11 years in professional ball, in the prankster—ever ready with the quip. "An unusual kid," is the way coach Weeb Ewbank describes his pass catching ace.

Ewbank calls him the "human crab because he seems to be always finding fault in a joking manner." Then the roly-poly Jets coach added: "but he is a great athlete—one that doesn't smoke, never takes a drink and trains the year round even when teaching school during the off season."

Sauer, 24-year-old son of the Jets personnel director, is even more deceiving in picturing a pro football player. He wears horned-rimmed glasses beneath a head of heavy blond hair.

"The contacts has made a different player out of him," said Ewbank. "When he first joined the club we noticed he often dropped the ball catching it over one shoulder. We sent him to an eye specialist who recommended contact lenses."

Since then he has joined with Maynard in giving the Jets one of the most feared 1-2 punches.

"I would describe George as a fast Ray Berry," said Ewbank, referring to the one-time great Baltimore end. "Berry was not fast but he ran great patterns. George is fast and also is a master at patterns."

Statistically Sauer edged Maynard 66-57 in passes caught during the past season. But Maynard hung up a pro record of yardage gained, surpassing Berry's old mark with a total of 1,297 yards and 10 touchdowns. Sauer picked up 1,141 yards and scored three touchdowns.

While sitting around the lobby of the Jets hotel headquarters, Maynard was asked what he thought of the odds which make the Colts an 18-point favorite.

"The odds make no difference to me," Maynard replied. "I never even think of them. This is just another big game. But I think I'm a better pass receiver this year chiefly because Joe (quarterback Joe Namath) and I have been working together four years. What helped make Berry so great was that he was with Johnny Unitas for 10 years."

Sauer, who celebrated his third wedding anniversary on Wednesday, was just as calm outwardly as his teammate. And he expressed surprise at the point spread.

"I've got plenty of butterflies inside of me," said the likeable youngster. "But they disappear as soon as I get into a meeting of the players or on the field."

Paterno Rejects Offer Of Steeler Coach Job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Penn State's young Joe Paterno, who spurned a half-million dollar coaching contract with the pros to stay on campus, acknowledged today he is a "corn-ball" and an "idealist."

"Some people may think I'm nuts for turning down such an offer," the slight, 42-year-old former Brown University quarterback said. "But I think there is more to life than money. I don't want to restrict myself to football."

Paterno, whose Nittany Lions now are unbeaten in 19 games, turned down Wednesday an offer from the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League which reportedly would have given him $50,000 a year for 10 years.

"I can't say what the contract was—Pittsburgh will have to do that," he added. "It would have assured me a lifetime of financial security for my family. I can never make that kind of money in college coaching, but I put more value in other things."

"I love campus life. I love the western Pennsylvania community where I live. I enjoy taking young players and watching them develop into men. I like the challenge of big-time college football."

Paterno said he resents the impression of some people that a college team to be big and successful must be crooked.

"I know from my experiences at Penn State that boys can be gentlemen and have humility on and off the field and still win," he continued. "Just because a team is good doesn't mean there are abuses, under-the-table payments and so forth.

Penn State during the past season won 10 games without a defeat, beat Kansas in the Orange Bowl and gained No. 2 ranking in The Associated Press final football poll.

Paterno, of Italian ancestry, was born in Brooklyn, the son of an attorney. He has a brother, George, who had a successful year as coach of the U.S. Maritime Academy.

He attended Brown University at Providence, R.I., where he intended to major in English and law. But he played football there under Rip Engle and when Engle went to Penn State as head coach in 1950 Joe went with him as assistant.

Bullets, 76ers Win On Last-Second Shots

By The Associated Press

San Diego's Rockets launched a tremendous come-from-behind effort, but Wes Unseld scuttled the whole thing with a simple little layup.

Unseld nursed in the layup with just three seconds left Wednesday night to give the Baltimore Bullets a 108-107 victory over the Rockets in the National Basketball Association.

Philadelphia nipped Atlanta 112-111, Boston stopped Detroit 113-104 and New York rolled past Milwaukee 115-101 in the night's other activity.

San Diego was 17 points behind early in the fourth quarter when it started its rally, moving to a 107-106 lead with 30 seconds left on Don Kojis' jump shot.

Pat Riley and Kojis doubled teamed the Bullets' Earl Monroe, and stole the ball with 16 seconds left. Jack Marin of Baltimore fouled San Diego's Elvin Hayes, but the rookie center missed both free throws with nine seconds remaining, giving Baltimore possession. Marin then missed a 25-foot jumper, but Unseld grabbed the rebound and put it in for victory.

The victory enabled the Bullets to maintain their 1½ game lead over Philadelphia in the rugged Eastern Division race.

Marin finished with 27 points, Kevin Loughery had 26 and Monroe 24. Hayes had 26 for the Rockets.

Bill Russell also supplied some last minute heroics for Boston.

Fairmont Still Second

Ashland 4, Penguins 14 In Small College Cage Poll

By The Associated Press

Kentucky Wesleyan, almost knocked off its perch atop The Associated Press' small-college basketball ratings, faces another difficult assignment this weekend when it takes on 10th-rated Gannon, Pa.

The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., suffered their initial setback of the campaign when they bowed to Evansville 71-70 last week. The result helped runner-up Fairmont of West Virginia to move to within 11 points of the leaders in the latest vote by a national panel of 16 sports writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky Wesleyan, 8-1 through games of last Saturday, accumulated 234 points in the balloting to 223 for unbeaten Fairmont, which edged the Panthers in first-place votes, five to four.

The Panthers meet Corpus Christi tonight and take on Gannon Saturday night. Gannon defeated Mt. St. Mary's, Illinois Wesleyan and San Francisco State last week in lifting its record to 9-2.

Stephen F. Austin rushed up to grab third place in this week's balloting followed by Ashland, Ohio, which held its ground, and Trinity, Tex., which slipped two positions to fifth.

Southwestern Louisiana, Central State of Ohio, Evansville, which advanced from 15th to eighth, Long Beach State and Gannon complete the first 10 in that order.

Illinois State, tied for 19th with Cheyney, Pa., State, is the only new team in the second 10. South Dakota State is 11th. Then come Lamar Tech, Nevada Southern, Youngstown State, Wittenberg, Eastern Michigan and Southwest Missouri State in a 16th-place deadlock and Indiana, Pa., State.

Cage Yogis Unanimous On 7 Of 10 Choices

Everyone took Wellsville over Oak Glen, Toronto over Beaver Local, Crestview over Southern, East Liverpool over Youngstown South, Jefferson Union over Beaver Local, Lisbon over Columbiana and Salem over Wellsville.

Two-Platoon Football Expected To Remain

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite charges of strong-arm tactics by the powerful NCAA council and pressure from the top brass, college football rules-makers are expected to beat down the new attempt to put in limited substitution, returning the game to the one-platoon system.

Before closing its annual convention Wednesday, the National Collegiate Athletic Association named a three-man committee to sit in with the 17-man committee which begins deliberations at Palm Springs next Monday on the knotty problem.

Coaches and others favorable to the more exciting two-platoon —or professional brand—of football insist that this action is like holding a hammer over the rules committee's head.

However, an informal poll of the committee indicates that sentiment is strong for keeping the present rule, which produced some of the most exciting scores and biggest crowds in history.

While the council insists the three men are mere observers, some recalled that similar tactics were used 1952 when the two-platoon system was surprisingly scrapped, not to return until 1965.

Many of the college administrators are pushing for a return to limited substitution, arguing that this is one means of cutting down spiraling costs now threatening to bankrupt college athletic programs.

The financial squeeze has brought other sharp cleavages between the men who handle the purse strings and the men who coach the teams.

One of these new areas concerns scholarships. Administrators want them reduced, perhaps placed under a national ceiling. The coaches, who depend on material for their jobs, are rebellious. Most of them want as many scholarships as they can get.

The American Football Coaches Association Wednesday voted to appoint a blue ribbon panel to study spiralling costs in athletics. The coaches are out to prove that there's a lot of lard on the hog—but not from scholarships.

The scholarship problem brought an interesting sidelight to the convention when a measure was passed giving the individual institutions a stronger hand in taking away the grants-in-aid when player is guilty of manifest disobedience.

Some of the Negro members took this as a subtle slap at the black power groups and said it might be invoked just because a player wears an Afro haircut or no haircut at all.

The NCAA insisted that the guilt would have to be deeper than that and would involve boycotts and overt acts of disruption, such as the San Jose State sitdown against Brigham Young during the football season.

Relations with the pros cooled further.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University football coach Frank Kush said today he has been released at his request from a commitment to become football coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

Kush said in a prepared statement he has requested and received assurances from ASU president G. Homer Durham and athletic director Clyde Smith that he may continue as head football coach at ASU.

The Arizona Republic news paper said today it learned from a reliable source that Kush could not agree on some points of the Pitt program and had decided to return to Arizona State.

Kush said his deep desire to remain at ASU and the interest of his family were stronger than his desire to leave ASU.

Kush said he had apologized to all concerned at both colleges for the embarrassment and complicated circumstances which resulted from his change of mind.

Touring Pros Open Season At L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, no stranger to sand putting surfaces or most any other green, perfect, good or bad, isn't worried about the setting of the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

The setting is the 6,827-yard par 36-35—71 Rancho Park course where Palmer scored his victories in 1963 and successive wins in 1966-67.

Casper's triumph a year ago, his first here in 13 attempts, came on Pasadena's Brookside Municipal course. He has yet to win at Rancho.

Will Train With Yanks, Mantle Says

DALLAS (AP) — Mickey Mantle, a veteran of 18 major league baseball season, said Wednesday he will report to spring training with the New York Yankees.

However, Mantle said, "I don't know what will happen after that."

Mantle has been bothered with injuries most of his career —particularly his gimpy knees. He hit only .237 last year, the lowest in his career. Mantle said pitchers were foxier than ever.

"The kids coming up are big and strong and the main difference is that they are smart," Mantle said.

"I mean a kid 22 years old has been watching games on TV for 10 years and he knows how to pitch."

"I've been traveling all these years and I've had it," Mantle said. "I want to stay home."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

2 IN MEMORIAM

Remembering our dear beloved husband, father, and grandfather, Charles D. Lentz who left us January 9, 1954. Your gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart, That loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trial to part, From one so good as you. You are not forgotten loved one, Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last, We will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by, We miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face. No one can fill your vacant place. — Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren.

IN loving memory of Virginia Butler, who passed away January 9, 1963. Sweet memories will linger forever, Time cannot change them it's true; Years that may come cannot sever My remembrance of you. You left sweet memories to blossom, Bearing fruit for years to come, In the lives of those who love you, Precious memories of years that are gone. Daughter, son, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren

Fairmont Still Second

Ashland 4, Penguins 14 In Small College Cage Poll

By The Associated Press

Kentucky Wesleyan, almost knocked off its perch atop The Associated Press' small-college basketball ratings, faces another difficult assignment this weekend when it takes on 10th-rated Gannon, Pa.

The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., suffered their initial setback of the campaign when they bowed to Evansville 71-70 last week. The result helped runner-up Fairmont of West Virginia to move to within 11 points of the leaders in the latest vote by a national panel of 16 sports writers and broadcasters.

Kentucky Wesleyan, 8-1 through games of last Saturday, accumulated 234 points in the balloting to 223 for unbeaten Fairmont, which edged the Panthers in first-place votes, five to four.

The Panthers meet Corpus Christi tonight and take on Gannon Saturday night. Gannon defeated Mt. St. Mary's, Illinois Wesleyan and San Francisco State last week in lifting its record to 9-2.

Stephen F. Austin rushed up to grab third place in this week's balloting followed by Ashland, Ohio, which held its ground, and Trinity, Tex., which slipped two positions to fifth.

Southwestern Louisiana, Central State of Ohio, Evansville, which advanced from 15th to eighth, Long Beach State and Gannon complete the first 10 in that order.

Illinois State, tied for 19th with Cheyney, Pa., State, is the only new team in the second 10. South Dakota State is 11th. Then come Lamar Tech, Nevada Southern, Youngstown State, Wittenberg, Eastern Michigan and Southwest Missouri State in a 16th-place deadlock and Indiana, Pa., State.

Cage Yogis Unanimous On 7 Of 10 Choices

Everyone took Wellsville over Oak Glen, Toronto over Beaver Local, Crestview over Southern, East Liverpool over Youngstown South, Jefferson Union over Beaver Local, Lisbon over Columbiana and Salem over Wellsville.

Two-Platoon Football Expected To Remain

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite charges of strong-arm tactics by the powerful NCAA council and pressure from the top brass, college football rules-makers are expected to beat down the new attempt to put in limited substitution, returning the game to the one-platoon system.

Before closing its annual convention Wednesday, the National Collegiate Athletic Association named a three-man committee to sit in with the 17-man committee which begins deliberations at Palm Springs next Monday on the knotty problem.

Coaches and others favorable to the more exciting two-platoon —or professional brand—of football insist that this action is like holding a hammer over the rules committee's head.

However, an informal poll of the committee indicates that sentiment is strong for keeping the present rule, which produced some of the most exciting scores and biggest crowds in history.

While the council insists the three men are mere observers, some recalled that similar tactics were used 1952 when the two-platoon system was surprisingly scrapped, not to return until 1965.

Many of the college administrators are pushing for a return to limited substitution, arguing that this is one means of cutting down spiraling costs now threatening to bankrupt college athletic programs.

The financial squeeze has brought other sharp cleavages between the men who handle the purse strings and the men who coach the teams.

One of these new areas concerns scholarships. Administrators want them reduced, perhaps placed under a national ceiling. The coaches, who depend on material for their jobs, are rebellious. Most of them want as many scholarships as they can get.

The American Football Coaches Association Wednesday voted to appoint a blue ribbon panel to study spiralling costs in athletics. The coaches are out to prove that there's a lot of lard on the hog—but not from scholarships.

The scholarship problem brought an interesting sidelight to the convention when a measure was passed giving the individual institutions a stronger hand in taking away the grants-in-aid when player is guilty of manifest disobedience.

Some of the Negro members took this as a subtle slap at the black power groups and said it might be invoked just because a player wears an Afro haircut or no haircut at all.

The NCAA insisted that the guilt would have to be deeper than that and would involve boycotts and overt acts of disruption, such as the San Jose State sitdown against Brigham Young during the football season.

Relations with the pros cooled further.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona State University football coach Frank Kush said today he has been released at his request from a commitment to become football coach at the University of Pittsburgh.

Kush said in a prepared statement he has requested and received assurances from ASU president G. Homer Durham and athletic director Clyde Smith that he may continue as head football coach at ASU.

The Arizona Republic news paper said today it learned from a reliable source that Kush could not agree on some points of the Pitt program and had decided to return to Arizona State.

Kush said his deep desire to remain at ASU and the interest of his family were stronger than his desire to leave ASU.

Kush said he had apologized to all concerned at both colleges for the embarrassment and complicated circumstances which resulted from his change of mind.

Touring Pros Open Season At L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, no stranger to sand putting surfaces or most any other green, perfect, good or bad, isn't worried about the setting of the Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament.

The peppery little guy from El Paso, Tex., was ready to shoot for the works today as play began in the 43rd annual mid-winter golfing fixture for a $100,000 purse.

Along with Trevino were such greats of the game as Billy Casper, the 1968 winner of the event, and three-time winner Arnold Palmer.

The setting is the 6,827-yard par 36-35—71 Rancho Park course where Palmer scored his victories in 1963 and successive wins in 1966-67.

Casper's triumph a year ago, his first here in 13 attempts, came on Pasadena's Brookside Municipal course. He has yet to win at Rancho.

Will Train With Yanks, Mantle Says

DALLAS (AP) — Mickey Mantle, a veteran of 18 major league baseball season, said Wednesday he will report to spring training with the New York Yankees.

However, Mantle said, "I don't know what will happen after that."

Mantle has been bothered with injuries most of his career —particularly his gimpy knees. He hit only .237 last year, the lowest in his career. Mantle said pitchers were foxier than ever.

"The kids coming up are big and strong and the main difference is that they are smart," Mantle said.

"I mean a kid 22 years old has been watching games on TV for 10 years and he knows how to pitch."

"I've been traveling all these years and I've had it," Mantle said. "I want to stay home."

2 IN MEMORIAM

Remembering our dear beloved husband, father, and grandfather, Charles D. Lentz who left us January 9, 1954. Your gentle face and patient smile, with sadness we recall. You had a kindly word for each, and died beloved by all. The voice is mute and stilled the heart, That loved us well and true. Ah, bitter was the trial to part, From one so good as you. You are not forgotten loved one, Nor will you ever be. As long as life and memory last, We will remember thee. We miss you now, our hearts are sore, As time goes by, We miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face, No one can fill your vacant place. — Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren.

IN loving memory of Virginia Butler, who passed away January 9, 1963. Sweet memories will linger forever, Time cannot change them it's true; Years that may come cannot sever My remembrance of you. You left sweet memories to blossom, Bearing fruit for years to come, In the lives of those who love you, Precious memories of years that are gone. Daughter, son, grandchildren, and greatgrandchildren

Life of a Parts Man

In an automotive store.
Sometimes I'm called a "genius,"
Sometimes I'm called much more.

I claim I'm no mechanic,
But when the job goes sick,
The mechanic comes and asks me
What makes the darned thing tick.

I'm supposed to know the numbers
Of bolts, nuts and gears
For every car that was ever made
For more than fifty years.

I'm an engineer and machinist
And what not, of my Lord,
I'm supposed to be an Edison
Combined with Henry Ford.

But life would be a pleasure
And I'd grin from ear to ear,
If the customer would only tell me
The Make, Model and Year!

Life of a Parts Man

I work behind the counter
In an automotive store.
Sometimes I'm called a "genius,"
Sometimes I'm called much more.

I claim I'm no mechanic,
But when the job goes sick,
The mechanic comes and asks me
What makes the darned thing tick.

I'm supposed to know the numbers
Of bolts, nuts and gears
For every car that was ever made
For more than fifty years.

I'm an engineer and machinist
And what not, of my Lord,
I'm supposed to be an Edison
Combined with Henry Ford.

But life would be a pleasure
And I'd grin from ear to ear,
If the customer would only tell me
The Make, Model and Year!

Junior Editors Quiz on TURTLES

QUESTION: What are the different kinds of turles?

* * *

ANSWER: Reptiles with hard shells of the order Chelonia are spoken of generally as turtles. This is an ancient animal group which has survived with little change, perhaps because the shells protect them so well. Chelonians are often divided in this way: Tortoises, those which live strictly on land; Turtles, the ones which live partly or entirely in water, including sea water; Terrapins, the hard-shelled fresh water kind, which have a definite market value for food. We illustrate the giant tortoise of the Galapagos Islands, which can weigh 250 pounds. It lives, according to some reports, up to 400 years. At the upper right is the smaller gropher tortoise of the southern U.S. The familiar spotted turtle represents a number of turtles which live in or near fresh water. The young one below him is the kind which are often sold for pets — the young of the American slider, a common species. The handsome diamond-back terrapin (lower right) is prized for food. Turtles continue their species by laying eggs, generally digging a nest in soft ground, depositing from one to 100 eggs, according to the kind they represent.

(Lucia Blohm of Muskegon, Mich., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus AP's handsome World Yearbook if your question, mailed on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, is selected for a prize.)

On this date in 1945, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's promise, "I shall return," was fulfilled as American troops invaded the Philippine Islands in World War II.

In 1944, in World War II, British destroyers bombarded San Benedetto, Italy.

Five years ago — A U.S. economic blockade of Cuba was being challenged by a British firm which had made a deal to sell 450 buses to the Castro government.
